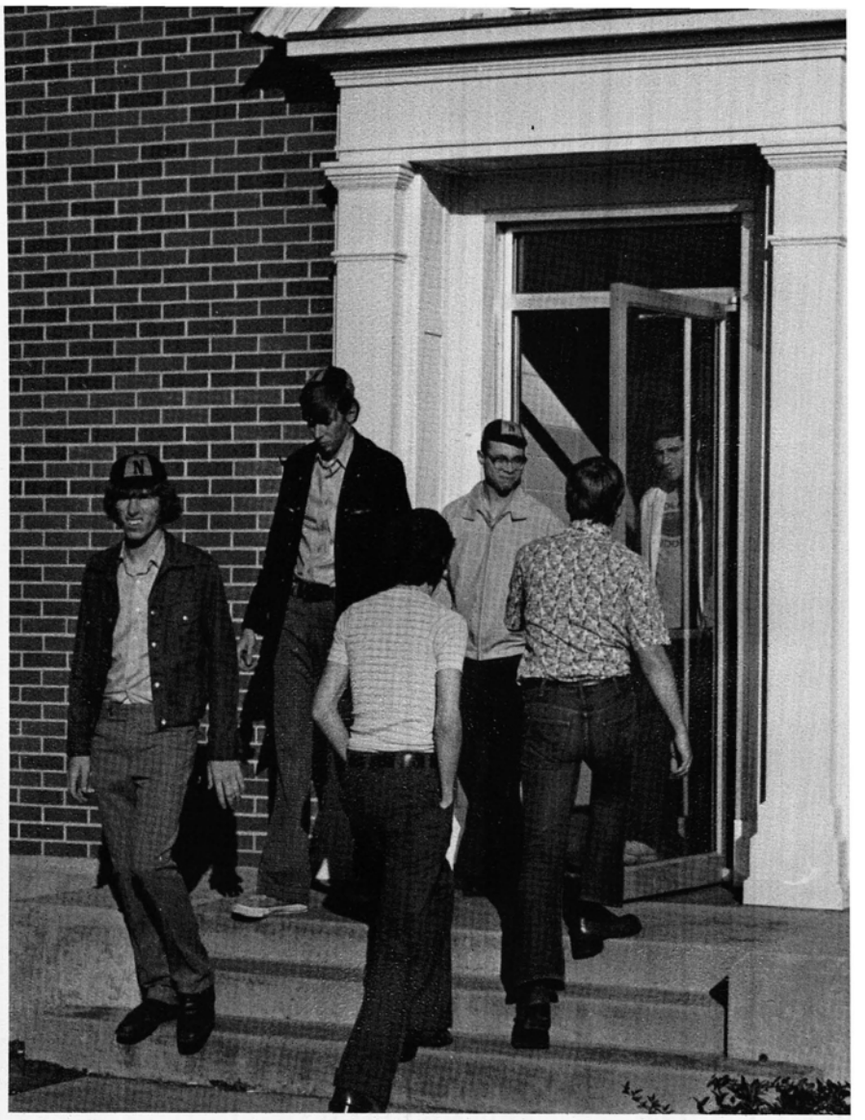
They call it maturity, this understanding of life's complexity, where absolutes dissolve into degrees of truth and mixims into complex novels. If college is about anything it is about understanding the human situation and learning to cope with its spectrum of meanings.

At Northern this year there were good times and bad, as always. We lived through them with varying degrees of pain and pleasure. What wisdom we gleaned we have tried to express in this book. We found few firm answers and many questions; we discovered that there are many ways of looking at life; that life at Northern is not all work, nor is it one long party; that it is friendship and loneliness; triumph and despair; serenity and turmoil; enlightenment and confusion, and all the shades of experience in between. Life at Northern is neither black or white, but as the twilight it is many shades of grey.



Moving in is a chore for both freshmen and upperclassmen, but the meeting of old friends and the making of new is rewarding.

Dr. Meyer and Ohio Northern

Freshmen first meet him at a tea at the president's home during orientation, if they haven't already met the veteran college president at a summer orientation session. He is surprisingly accessible, on a campus of 2700 students, and contributes greatly to the feeling of a small, family atmosphere on campus.

Sometimes referred to as Northern's number one sports fan, Dr. Meyer is seen at nearly every major sports event. His enthusiasm for sports, and for life, is contagious. He chortles, he smiles with glee, he moves with vigor, he is determined.

During the past 10 years Northern's campus and academic programs have grown tremendously. He says it was the work of others that he built upon ... that he came to the university at the right time for growth. That may be true. But somehow we all know that Dr. Meyer's vision and perseverance helped to make Northern what it is today.

Students may not always agree with Dr. Meyer's opinions. But they admire and respect the man that has led this institution to success during the past decade.

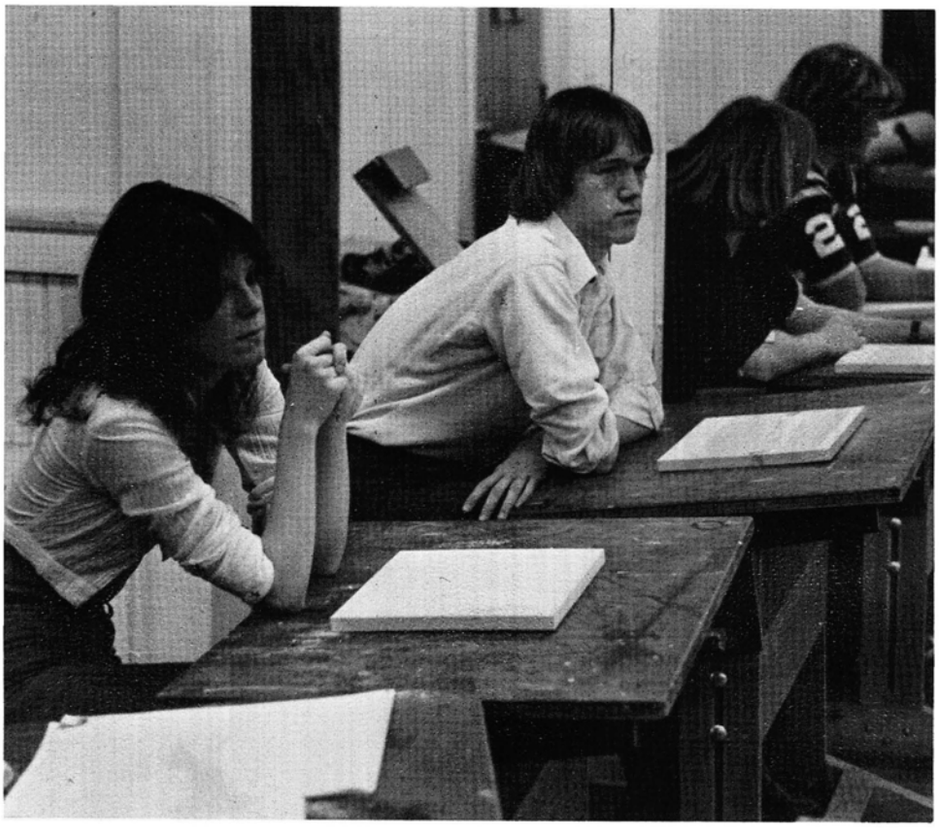
Chemical Principles



Northern students expand and grow through the learning process. Knowledge can be gained through various means: reading, watching, listening, writing, and participation. Many students learn by doing. Participation can be an important part of learning.

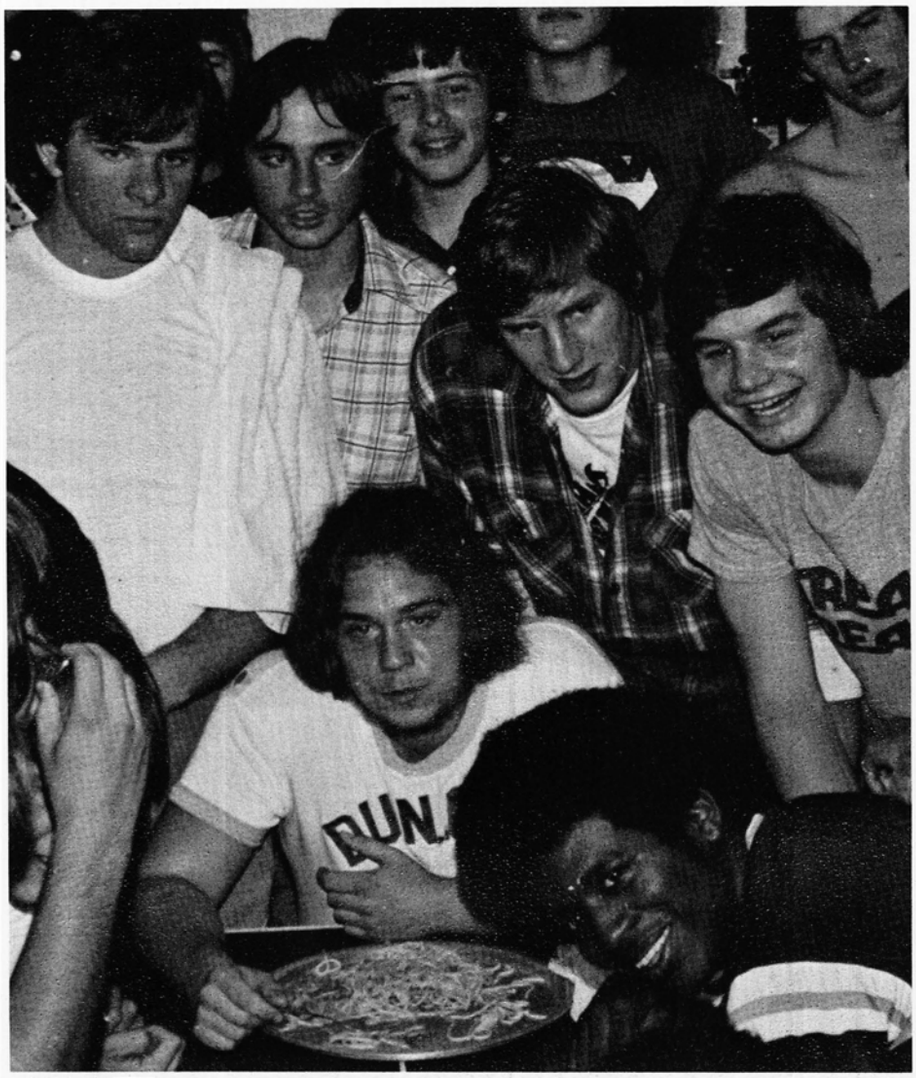
The Battle of the Stomachs

The stage was set in Founders Hall. The opponents solemnly stepped up to the table and the battle began. The battle, between Quincey SuSong and Mike Ruggero was a spaghetti eating contest. While many spectators gazed on, the competitors chewed and swallowed, and chewed some more. Finally after a few belches and over two pounds of spaghetti consumed, Quincey emerged the man with the superior stomach.



Top: Finding it a chore to swallow, Mike's ready to quit.
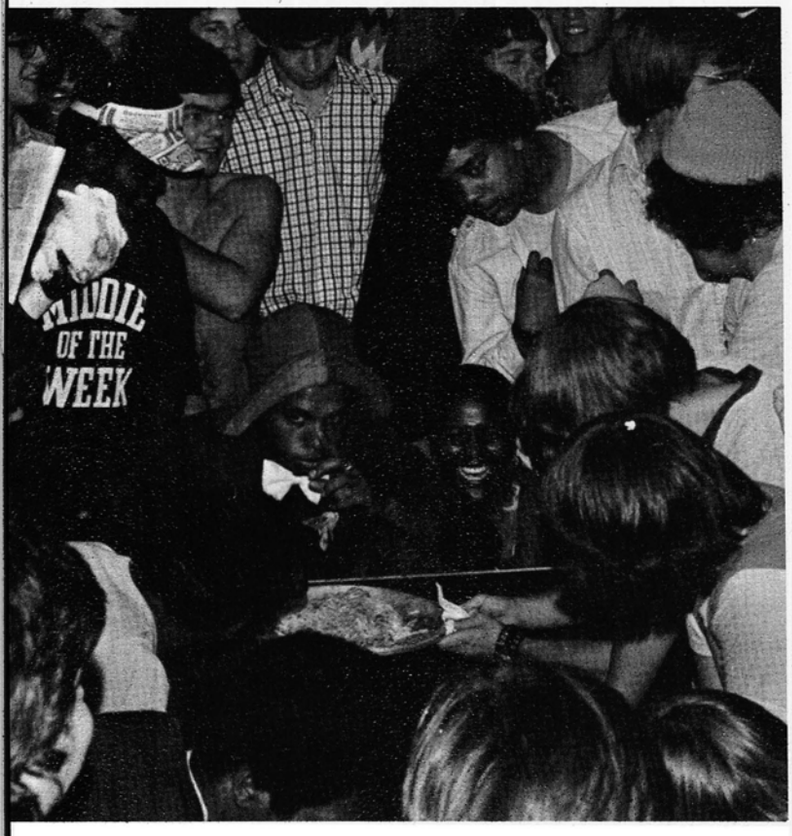
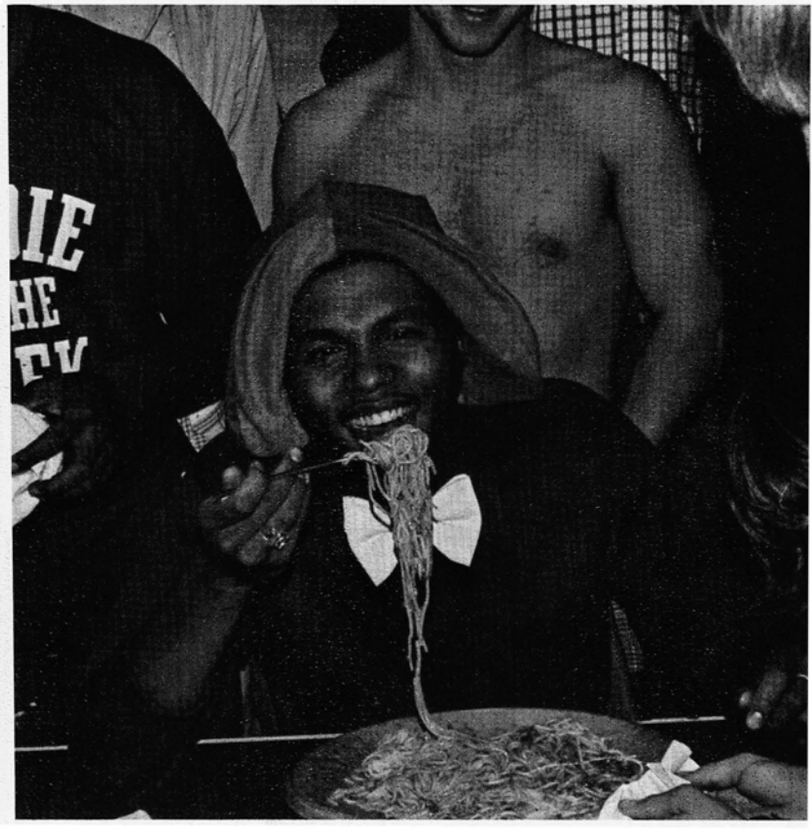
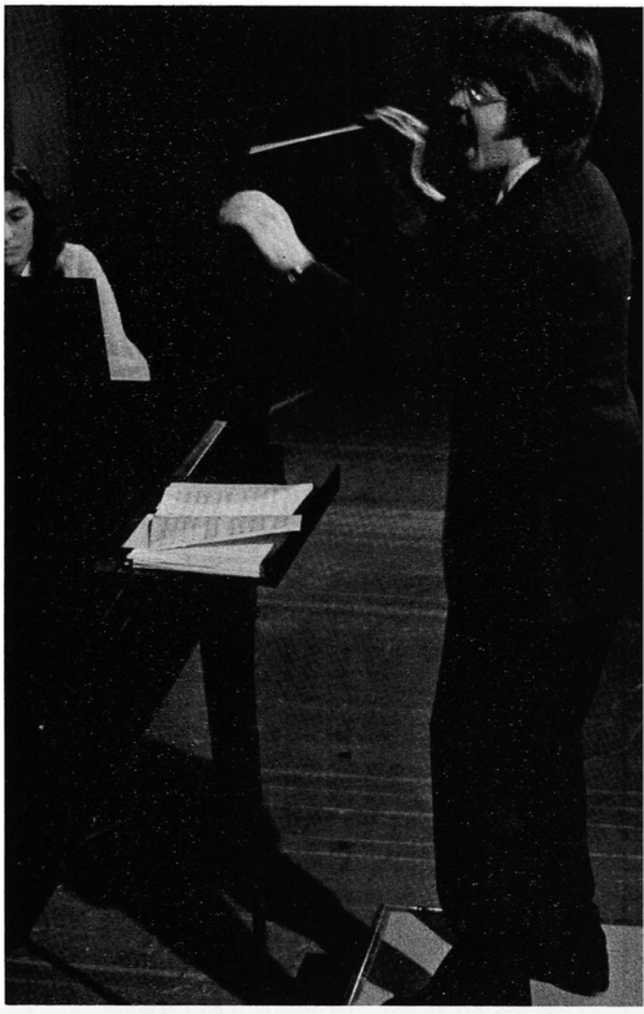
Bottom right: Finally, Quincy proves to all that you don't have to be Italian to master spaghetti.

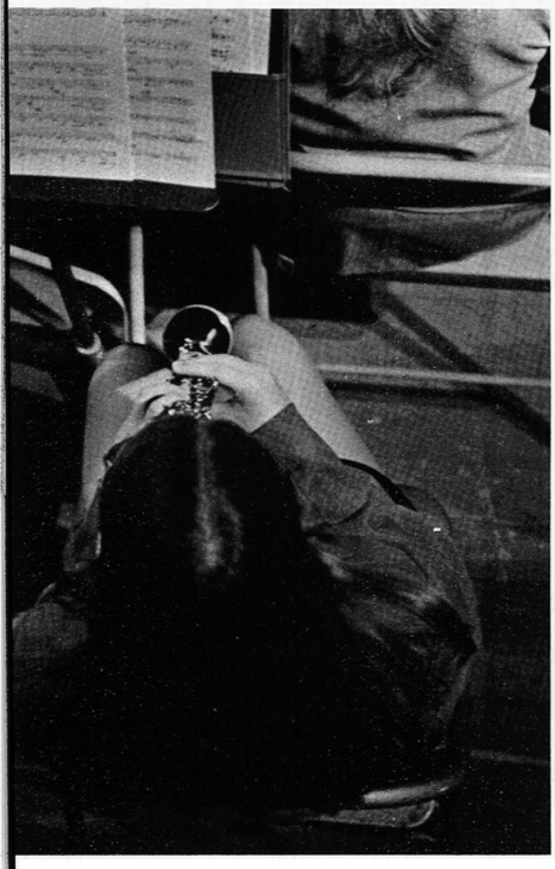




Musical Involvement

For the musically inclined, there are many opportunities for students to develop their talents at Ohio Northern. The student may choose to participate in any of the musically oriented groups on campus. A few of these are: chorus, which performs once a quarter, the University Singers, who perform throughout the year and tour parts of the U.S. during spring break, and Northern Lights, who give various performances all year. Instrumental participation can be found in the Jazz Ensemble, which attends a collegiate jazz festival as well as hosting a festival of their own and giving two concerts a year, the Concert Band, which performs three times a year, and the Pep Band, which plays at all home games.





Artist Series

The Artist Series opened with William Stafford, a leading modern poet, reading poems from his three collections. As he read, the poet gave himself away – his early boyhood experiences with nature in Kansas, his years as a farm taborer and as a trail crew member for the U.S. Forest Service, his feelings about death and those traces of human existence which live beyond it.

The Mask and Mime Theatre delighted its ONU audience, children and adults alike. Two very talented students of Marcel Marceau used their bodies, not their voices, to establish characters, tell stories and evoke warm laughter. Who can ever forget "Frog Lake," the ballet satire they danced?

Noel Lee appeared on campus next, a native returning from concert tours across the United States and Europe. The son of Dr. Charles O. Lee, a former professor of pharmacy at Ohio Northern, Noel Lee specializes in modern rather than a classical piano repertoire. Lee is also a composer and rendered some of his own works at his ONU concert.

The National Shakespeare Company performed "The Miser", Moliere's incomparable classic comedy, in December. As the play unfolded, revealing the frustration of the hero over his children and their various lovers who threatened his fortune, the crisp characterizations and flawless timing of the professional troop gave Ohio Northern playgoers another night to remember.

Plum Creek Symphony, a chamber ensemble, made its first appearance on ONU's campus in January. The unique small chamber group drew from 17th century to present day composers for their performance.

Another poet, another view of life. Denise Levertov moved her audience with her subtly skillful reading of her own profound, compassionate poetry. She had a style of delivery which matched her poetry: sparse, immediate and vibrant.

The woodcuts of Sidney Chafetz, the internationally-acclaimed artist, educator and critic of American higher education, screamed indignation at viewers on campus in February. Chafetz pictured pudgy professors in academic gowns wearing Mickey Mouse hats and bloated teachers carrying lollypops or pennants inscribed with the school moto 'Mediocritus'. But it wasn't all that bad: Freud, Frost and Whitman were some of the greats he also portrayed.

The New York Theatre Company presented "Berlin to Broadway with Kurt Weill" in March, dispelling the gloom of a gray month with an exciting review of the German composer's songs. The audience recognized music from "Lost in the Stars" and the "Three Penny Opera", as well as music from ballet and straight theatre background music.

The Amati Quartet appeared in April. The group, founded in Amsterdam eight years ago, smoothly worked through difficult string quartets by Bartok, Schubert and lutoslawski.

The Cultural affairs committee sponsored movies throughout the year. They were free, as were the artist series performances, and students took advantage of showings of cinema classics "Darling", "Knife in the Water" and "The Shop on Main Street" among others.

Strange Events Strike Northern

As Halloween drew near, weird events began to occur at Northern. People started dressing strangley, their skin turned pale, incisors grew into fangs, and possibly the worst event was that nearlyeveryone began slicing up pumpkins. These strange occurences were concentrated mainly in McIntosh Center and Clark Hall although scattered reports from various parts of campus confirmed that the phenomenon was indeed campus wide.

King-Horn

For the fifth year in a row the resumption of classes at Northern marked the opening of a new building on campus. King-Horn Convocational Physical Education Center opened for student use in September 1974. Located at the northwest end of campus, the structure houses a 3,200 seat athletic arena with a capacity of 5,000 seats for convocations and concerts; a six-lane, 50-yard swimming pool, three handball courts, a 110-yard jogging track, a wrestling room, dance studio, gymnastics room, weight-lifting room, fencing, shuffle board and ping pong areas, three classrooms, offices, study areas, training room, sauna, and locker rooms.

Financed for the most part from a $1.8 million gift of the late Helen Horn King of Eaton, Ohio, the $2.3 million center was .constructed in 17 months.

The gymnasium is one of the finest of its kind in Ohio. Most of the 3200 seats are backed and have ample leg room. The scoreboards are the most sophisticated of any in the Ohio Conference. The main gym, when the seats are retracted, can be divided into three gymnasiums with floor to ceiling folding doors. The gymnasium can accommodate five basketball games, nine badminton matches, seven volleyball games, or two tennis matches, respectively, at the same time.

One of the more unusual aspects of the building is its design for use by women as much as for men. Areas such as the dance room and gymnastics room provide the most modern and complete facilities for coed physical education classes. Even the training room is arranged for use by both men and women.

The natatorium was designed for inter-collegiate and intramural sports as well as recreation and relaxation. Special hours have been arranged for swimming by faculty, students, staff and members of the Ada community.

Marvin English participates in the dedication of the new convocation center.

Intramural races are held at King-Horn's pool.

Beanies are Back: Homecoming 1975

More than 2500 people looked on as Brenda Ridenour and Greg Russell were crowned as ONU's Homecoming Queen and King for 1974, Saturday, October 12.

On the Queen's court were Sally Grenell, Daryl DuBois and Barb Rivenburgh while Bill Zimmerman, Chuck Daum and Mike Kenner made up the King's court.

Although a happy afternoon for Ridenour and Russell, it turned out to be a disappointing Homecoming for ONU football fans as the Bears dropped a 28-17 decision to Capital.

The Homecoming activities got off to a quick and fiery start Friday afternoon with a controversial victory in the flagpole rush. It seems that the freshmen got all the way over to Dean Miller, who was standing in front of McIntosh, when a sophomore grabbed the beanie from the frosh and handed it to Miller. Since the frosh supposedly win if the Dean gets the beanie, then, technically, they won the flagpole rush.

This was the third consecutive year the freshmen have come up with a victory.

The pushmobile race Friday afternoon was taken by the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Their time of 3:40.7 beat out the second place Alpha Epsilon Pi by a full IO seconds. In the lady's division Alpha Omicron Pi came in with a time of 55.3 seconds to edge out Zeta Tau Alpha.

Friday night's torch light parade was followed by a bonfire at the Ada Park. After the fire was lit, Head Football Coach A. Wallace Hood complimented the student body on their "show of enthusiasm" and guaranteed them the team would bring home a victory with their support.

Don Thomas, one of the football teams four co-captains also spoke, pointing out that the team would do its talking on the football field Saturday.

Homecoming Committee chairman Loyal Charles followed by asking the football team to step forward. The bonfire then ended with the announcement of the court for 1974.

Saturday morning's parade saw the Phi Mu Delta's come up with the Grand Marshall's award for the best float.

Zeta Tau Alpha picked up the award for originality while Delta Sigma Phi's float was chosen for the Best Theme award.

The weekend came to a close as Maureen McGovern performed in King-Horn, Center. Approximately 3000 people were on hand for the concert.

Phi Mu Delta captured the Grand Marshall's award.

"Mind and Body"

The batter fouls off the first pitch, misses the second one, and steps out of the box. With the score tied, runners on first and second, and two out, the pitcher is in obvious command. The batter is expressionless, her eyes hidden behind one-way sunglasses; returning to the batter's box, she raises her bat into position. The pitcher lets loose a fast ball, and the batter meets it out in front of the plate, launching a torpedo quick shop that hits in left centerfield and skids past the outfielder. One runner scores, then another, and the batter stops at third base with a stand-up triple. The home team is jubilant. The batter's expression is hidden behind her sunglasses.

Two innings later, the batter steps to the plate again. Her team is now two runs behind, and she represents the tying run at the plate. She is relaxed and confident, giving no sign that with two out in the bottom of the last inning the pressure is on her. Sporadic shouts of encouragement come from the bench. She swings. The ball darts toward third base line, a sure extra base hit, when the third baseman at the last moment grabs it with her glove for the final out.

The game and the girl's inter-collegiate athletic career are over.

Sports is a human activity, a sophisticated form of play that satisfies needs common to both sexes.

"When I play sports, I get more out of my school work. I don't put things off. I organize my time better, and I feel better . . .

. . . One can't function without the other (referring to the body and the mind). I'm always finding similarities between the two . . . You have to know both to be healthy.

" . . . Playing sports makes you more complete. You learn teamwork, cooperation, and communication, which is the toughest to learn after the basics. Sports is a fun way to learn communications . . .

"Sports is thinking. You have to teach yourself what to do in any given situation. It isn't a reflex. You have to use your mind as well as your body.

"In high school it was 'win at all cost.' Now, competition brings out the best in me. It means more to play well. I can lose and be satisfied with myself. Sometimes you can lose and really be the winner. Everybody likes to win, but at Northern we aren't out to win at all costs . . . We get to know our competitors and associate with them. We never carry rivalry to the extreme that we can't be friends."

Sports "gives me a way to take out my frustrations. I shoot foul shots to relieve tension. I also feel good doing it."

Harriers Enjoy Best Season Ever: 14-1

The Ohio Northern Cross Country team enjoyed its most successful season ever last fall finishing with a 14-1 record in dual meets.

After an opening season loss to Oberlin the harriers won 14 in a row for Coach Gale Daugherty, surprising such strong foes as Wooster Otterbein and Findlay, just to name a few.

The Bears seldom took first in a meet but the team's top three of Andy Wallwork, Matt McGowan and Mark Cook were never far behind the leader of each race. The three youngsters (Wallwork a sophomore and the other two freshmen) joined three "old juniors," Bruce Bailey, Bob Haas and Mike Lingo to provide the winning edge.

The team finished 6th in the OAC Championships at Ohio Wesleyan with Cook placing 13th, McGowan 18th and Wallwork 22nd. Later, the talented trio competed in the NCAA National Championships, finishing among the top half of the large field of runners. McGowan and Cook were named "Most Valuable Runners" for the 1974 team.

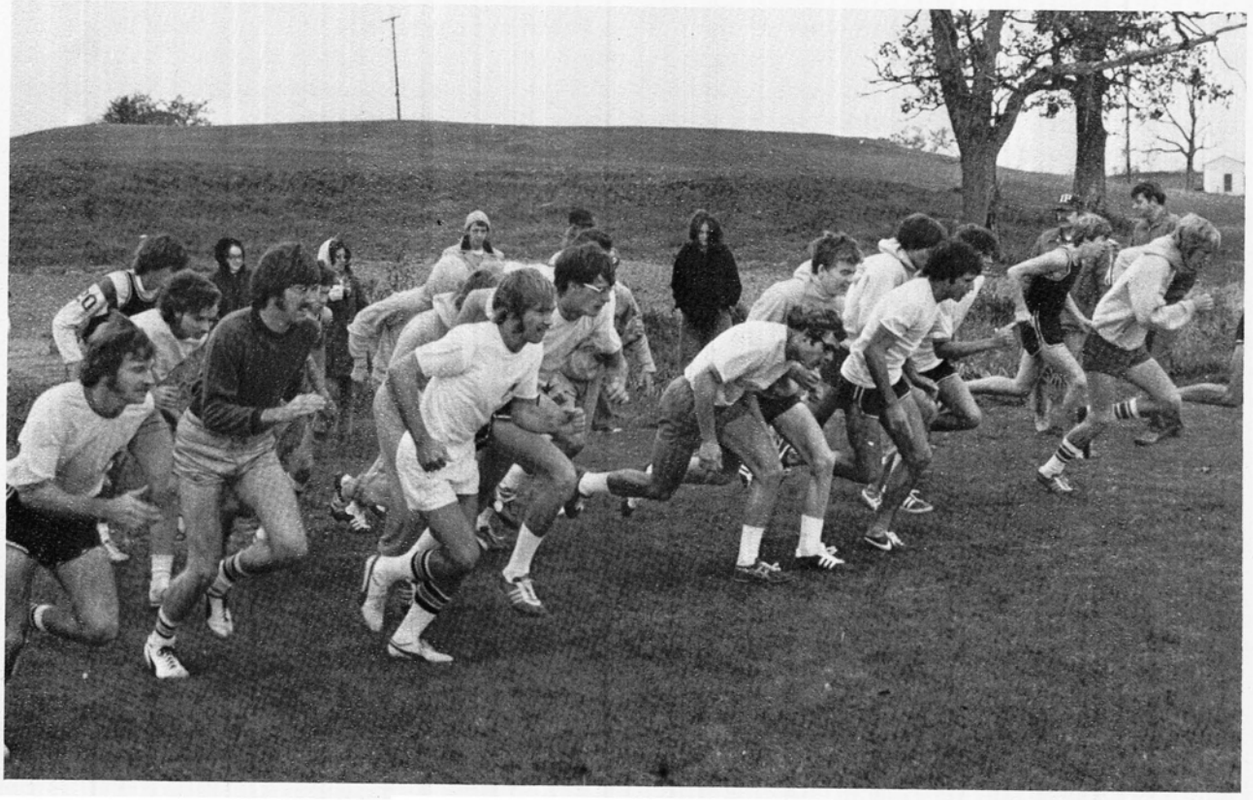
The warmups ... stretching those muscles, getting ready and keeping warm.



The start of the race ... a mass of eager bodies full of the energy to carry them five miles.

Football Season Proves Lesson in Frustration

On the surface the 1974 season, ending at 2-7, appeared to have been little better than 1973 for the Ohio Northern football team when the Polar Bears also finished 2-7.

But there is one big difference. With the 1974 edition playing mostly with sophomores and freshmen, the future is very bright for the Bears and first year coach, Wally Hood. Hood, from the very beginning, put his money on the younger players at most positions, often starting as many as eight freshmen, and as many or more sophomores.

Despite seven defeats only one was an embarrassment for Ohio Northern, that being the season finale when Alma College walked off with a 32-7 triumph (though even than ONU led 7-3 at the half). The other losses were by respectable margins, four of them by a touchdown or less, giving the young Bears more than one lesson in frustration.

Contrary to the .predominance of youth, the brightest spot all season was the all-around play of a senior tailback Don Thomas of Elida. Possibly the most versatile football player Ohio Northern has ever had, Thomas led the team in rushing and punt returns and was second in scoring, receiving and kickoff returns. Against Alma he added 114 yards to his rushing total to become the first Polar Bear to rush for over 1000 yards in a season since all-time leading rusher Jack Decker did it in 1952. His final total was 1005 yards in 218 carries, leaving him the third leading rusher in the Ohio Conference this year.

for some the 1974 season was another disappointing year, but for Coach Hood and many of his young players it was a valuable learning experience that is likely to prove useful in seasons to come.

Soccer Gains Varsity Status After 7 Years

Soccer is the world's most popular sport, but at Ohio Northern the soccer club had to survive seven years of second rate facilities and general lack of student interest. The long, lonely years of practice brought ever greater rewards to the soccer club, culminating in a 6-4-1 best ever record this fall with the University Board of Trustees voting to make soccer a varsity sport. The soccer club is grateful to all those people who helped us achieve varsity status and is looking forward to an even better season this fall.

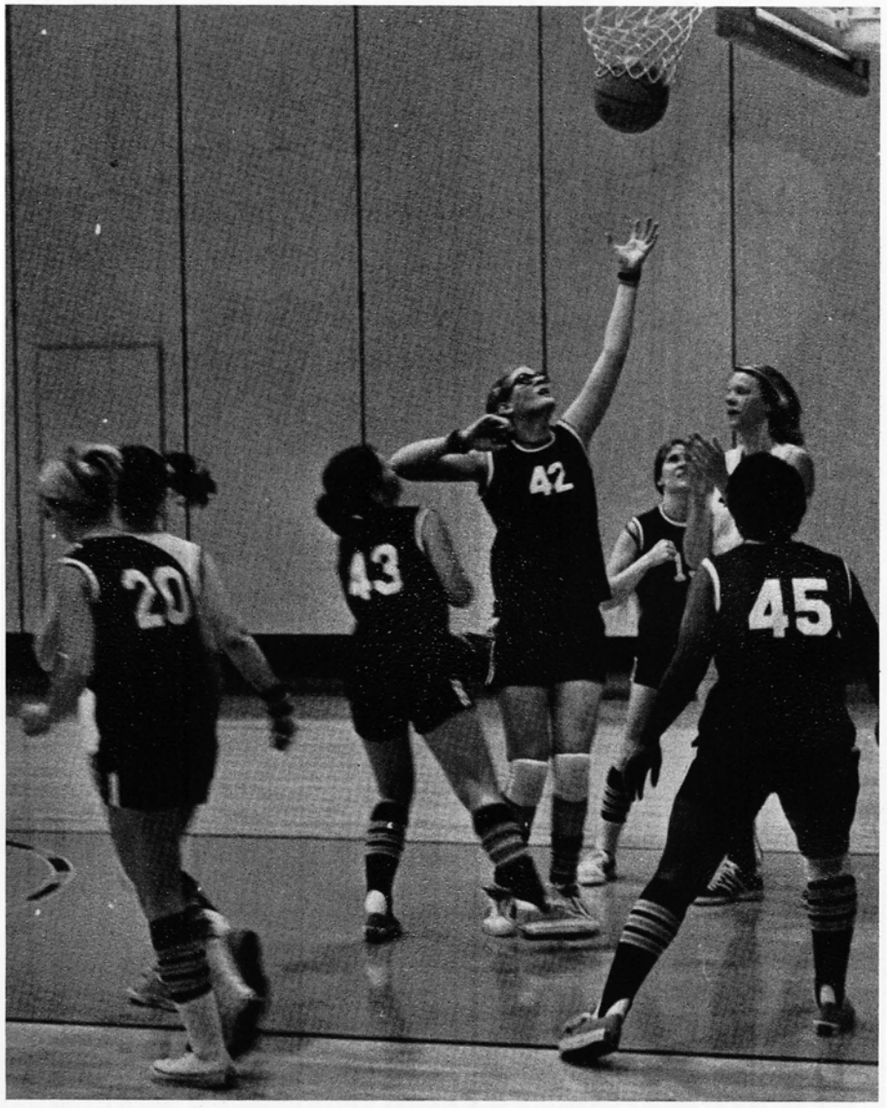
Disappointing Season for Lady Bears

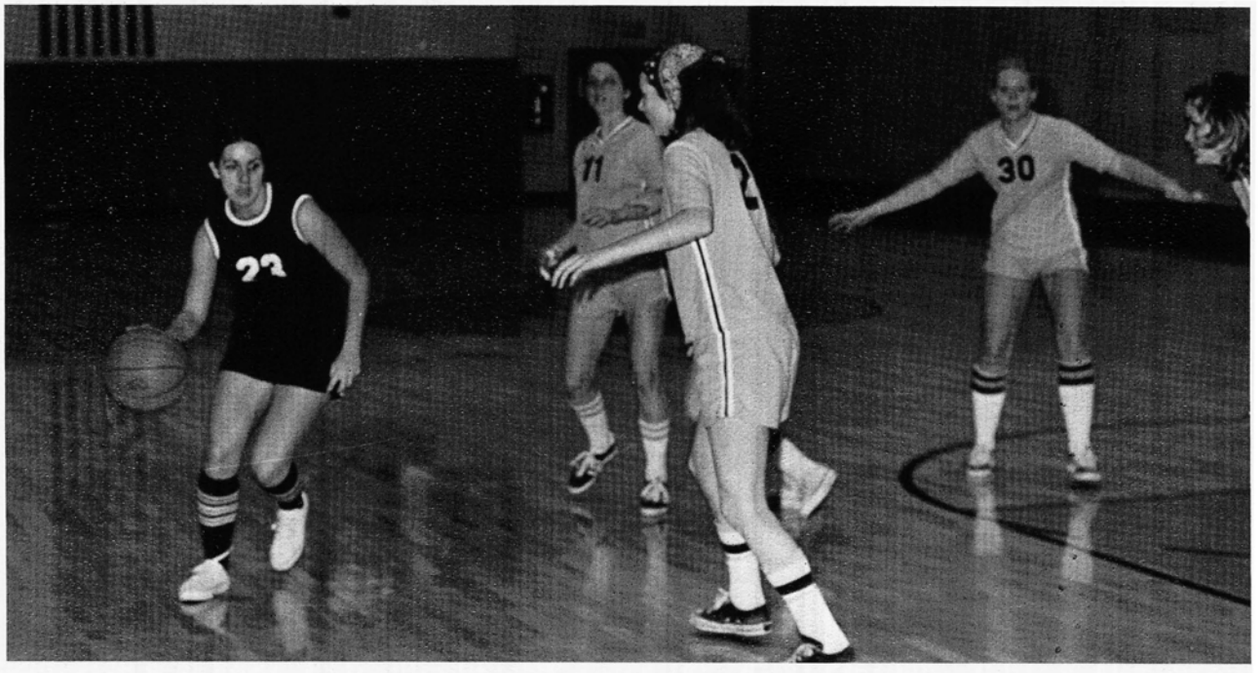
The gap between the quality of women's sports at small colleges and major universities grew ever larger this year, especially in basketbatl and for Ohio Northern's team it cost the girls a winning season.

Despite several outstanding players like high scorers Maggi Williams and Deb Shondrick the ladies finished with a 4-8 record. Four of those eight losses came at the hands of major schools.

The 1975 State Tournament was held this year in King-Horn Center with 24 teams competing. Northern was eliminated in two games by Dayton and Cincinnati. Of the final eight teams only one was a small college and the top four were all big schools with Ohia State winning it.



Linda Maurer (42) and several other Bears gather beneath the basket for a rebound, but in vain as the ball goes through the hoop.



With the defense converging on her, JV star Candi Moore simply dribbles around her opponents.

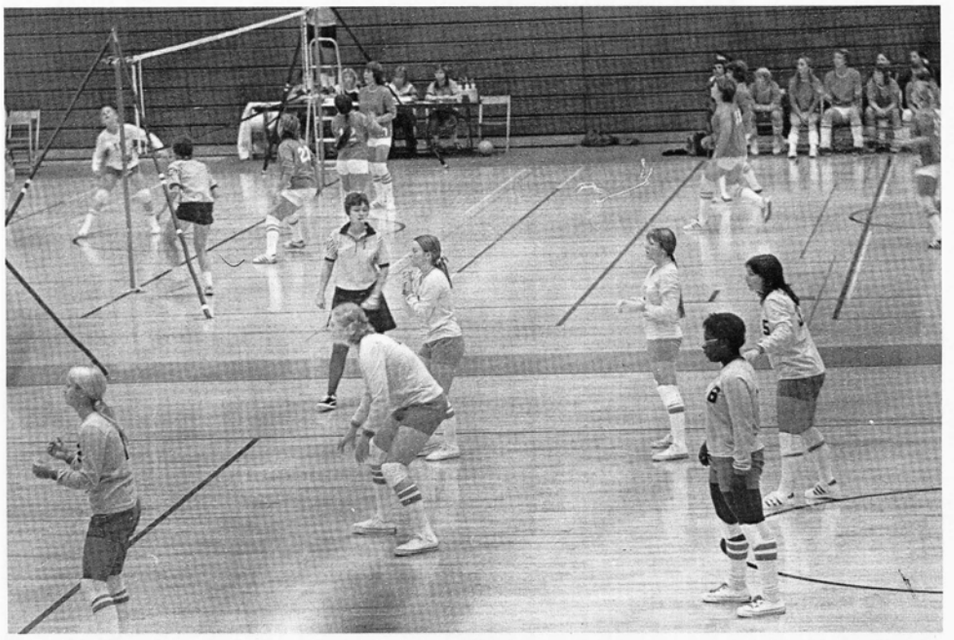
VB 3-17, But Future Bright

The highlight of the women's volleyball season came early when the ladies had the honor of playing in the first intercollegiate athletic event ever held in King-Horn Center. From there the high points were few as the inexperienced Bears finished 3-17 for the season.

Coach Sheila Wallace had to build almost an entire team having only six girls with any previous experience. Of the 23 girls on varsity and JV's, 18 were playing volleyball for the first time. Considering that fact the ladies cannot help but look to next year with expectations of improvement.



Poised and ready for action, the ONU volleyball team awaits the opponents serve during a quadrangular in King-Horn.

Grapplers Win OAC Title

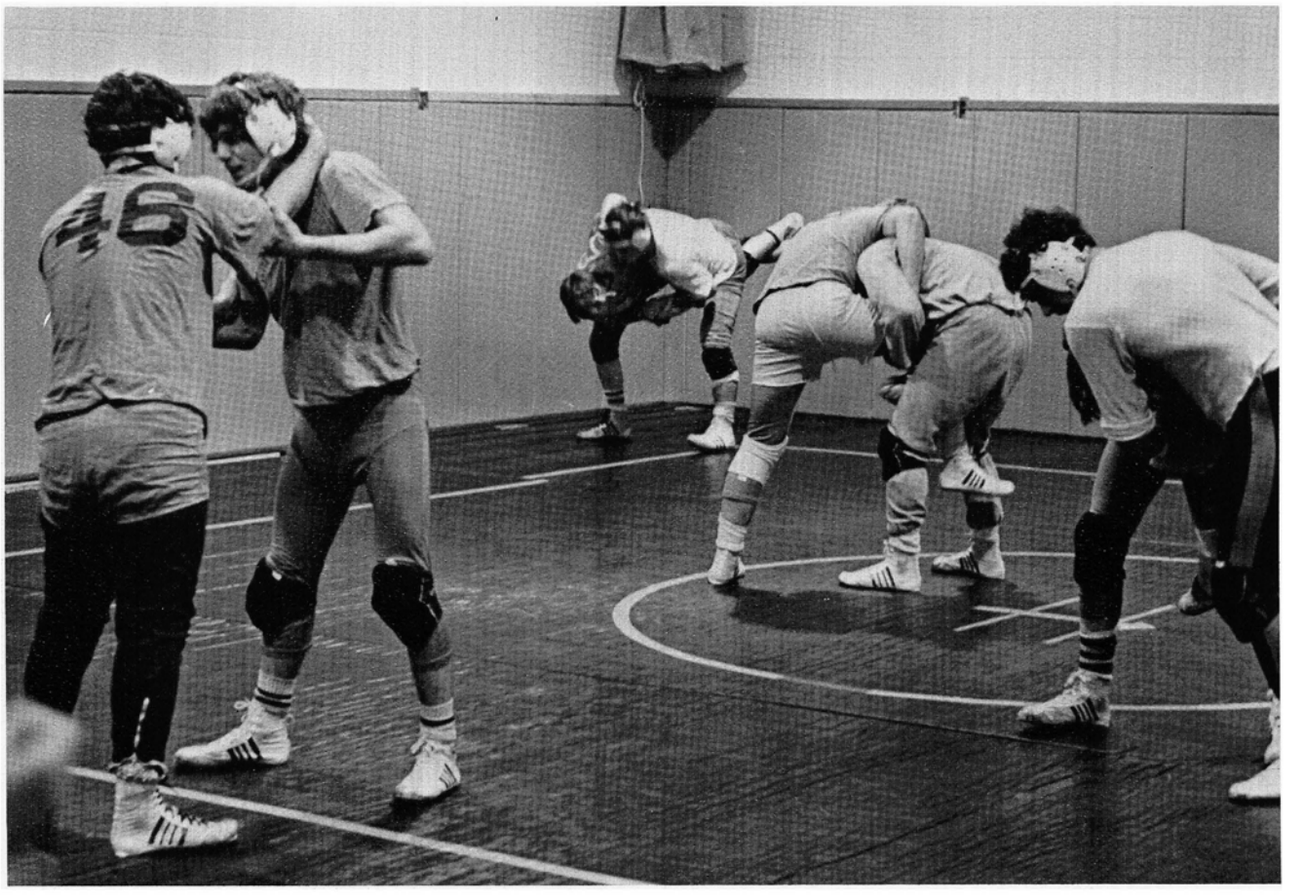
Coach McCormick looks on with concern.

It was another sensational year for the Polar Bear wrestlers under Coach Toby McCormick. The team raced through its regular season with a 20-2 record, the best regular season mark in ONU wrestling history, and won the Ohio Conference championship for the first time.

The only losses for the Bears were a 19-11 setback at the hands of Heidelberg and a 24-19 loss to Taylor (Ind.). Among those who fell to the mighty Bears were Xavier, Wright State, Franklin (Ind.), University of Dayton and Baldwin-Wallace. The surprise of the year came back in December when ONU whipped Olivet 24-15, ending the nation's longest winning streak at 47 matches.

Four Polar Bear grapplers moved into the list of "Top Ten Winners" in ONU history. Junior Tim Drake of Tipp City, a 126 pounder, advanced to second on the list with 46 wins, just two behind alltime winner, Bruce Williams. He completed the regular season with a 19-4-1 record. Others now in the top ten are Steve Hohl (134 pounds), Rudy Rivera (167 pounds) and Ken Hansen (177 pounds).

Hohl, only a sophomore, was the team's top winner with a 24-7 record. Hansen, a junior, was 21-5-2 and was an OAC champ, while Rivera, a sophomore was 15-4-1. Other top winners were freshman Ron Shilliday at 142 pounds with a 16-4 record and senior Blair Smith at 158 pounds with a 17-5 record and an OAC title. A freshman at 118 pounds, Mark Silvers was 15-10 during the regular season.



Practice makes perfect and it was practice sessions like this one that made ONU conference champs.

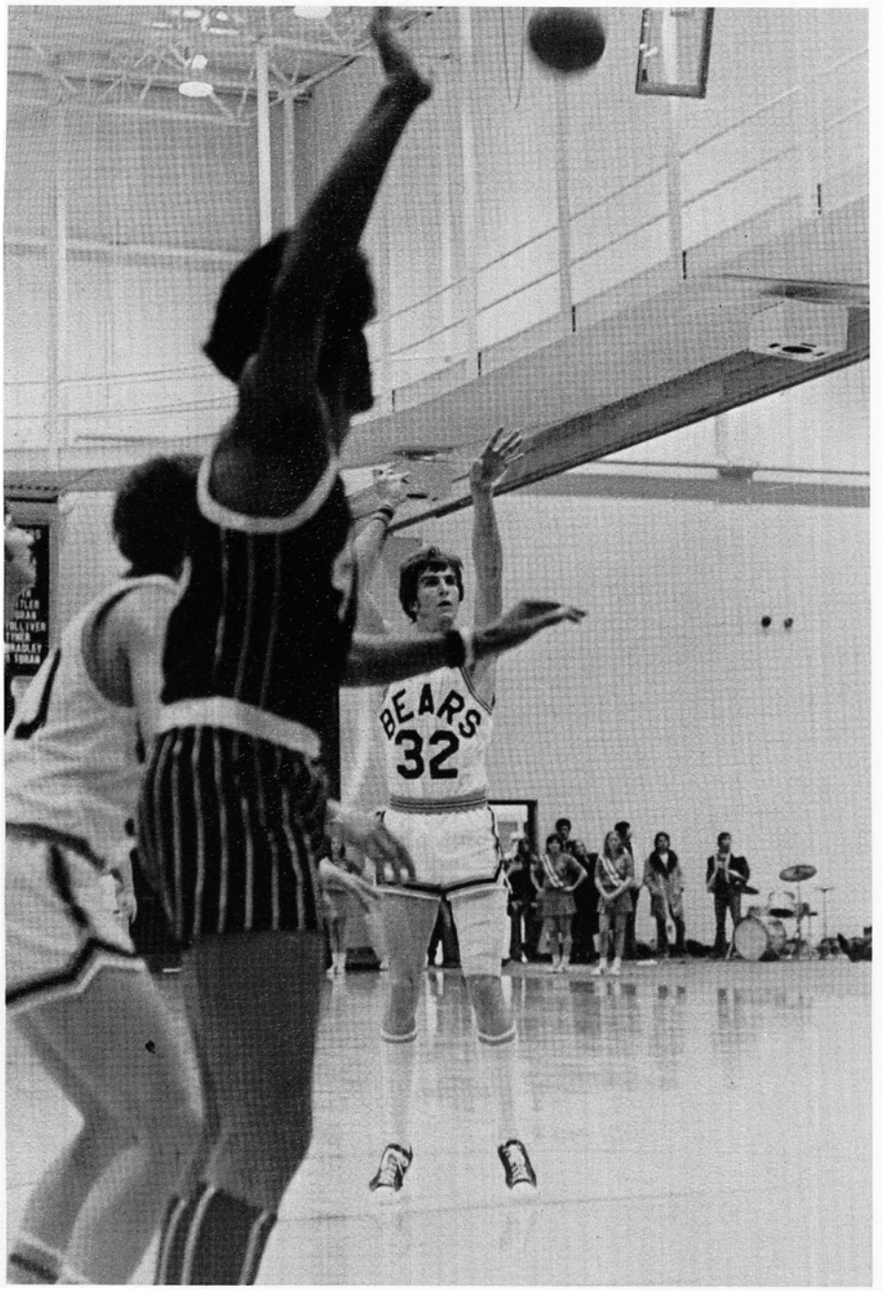
Bad Luck Plagues the Basketball Team



Another successful Al Donhoff free throw is on its way. A.D. hit 84% from the line this year.

Injuries, youthful inexperience and just plain bad luck plagued the 1974-75 basketball team; yet the Bears overcame these obstacles to compile a 13-14 record and once again reach the Ohio Athletic Conference Northern Division Championship game.

Third year coach, Gale Daugherty, was less than optimistic about his team's chances for a successful season. This year only two starters and a total of five lettermen returned from last season's 18-7 squad. Of the five, one left school after fall quarter, and another underwent knee surgery and was out until late January. The Polar Bears started the season with only three experienced players. Injuries also befell a talented junior college transfer and a promising sophomore.

The Bears' conference performance during the regular season reflected the balance and strength of the OAC this year. The fact that seven teams had all five starters returning partially explains the ONU 4-8 conference record. But in those eight setbacks four games were lost by three points or less.

The frustrations of the regular season were erased in the conference tournament in which the Bears advanced to the division championship game by defeating Heidelberg and Baldwin-Wallace only to lose to Oberlin 53-51 for the title. ONU finished the season nationally ranked third in both defensive average and foul shooting percentage.

Even though the past season was rather bleak, the Bears finished with high hopes for the future. Losing only one player, Dean King, to graduation, ONU has an abundance of returning talent for next season.

A smiling bench indicates the game is going our way and the ONU bench was smiling alot in '75.

The 1975 baseball season began with high hopes for a return to the Small College World Series, but ended in disappointment when the Marietta Pioneers beat ONU in two games, 4-3 and 11-4 to win the Ohio Conference Championship, unseating the defending OAC and Mideast Champions from Ohio Northern.

Despite those setbacks, it was nevertheless a very successful season for the Bears. They finished with an 18-9 record and won the OAC Northern Division with a 13-1 record. A loss to Baldwin-Wallace in the last conference game was ONU's only blemish.

Al Donhoff, a junior first baseman, led the team in hitting for the second straight year with a .329 batting average, while right-fielder and senior Greg Roberts led in total stolen bases with 38. Ed Miklavcic was the squad's pitching ace again as the junior had an 8-2 record and an outstanding 1.41 ERA. Jeff Goldsmith had a 5-1 record in his junior year and tossed the Ohio Conference's only no-hitter with a 2-0 triumph over Heidelberg. As a team, ONU was the first in the league in ERA at 2.20 and second in fielding average at .961.

Outstanding Year for Golfers

The Bear linkster compiled a 6-1 dual meet record this year losing only to Bluffton College, then proved the surprise of the Ohio Conference Championships placing third, the highest finish ever for Northern golfers.

Paul Simmons led the team with a 79.5 average per round, followed by Paul Root at 81.3 and Don Huprich at 82.1. At the OAC meet, they paced the squad in finishing just behind second place Wittenberg and champion Wooster.

The Bears also competed in five invitational tournaments, winning one of them, the six team Heidelberg Invitational. They also placed third among twelve at Kenyon and third among 17 at Indiana-Purdue.

Young But Successful Track Team

First year coach Tom Maher guided a very young Ohio Northern track team (only two seniors) to a 9-1 dual meet record this spring and its second straight ONU Relays title.

Led by top point-getter Willie Rodgers, a freshman sprinter, long-jumper and triple jumper, the Bears walloped such foes as Findlay, Wittenberg, Capital, Kenyon, Taylor, and others. The only loss came at Otterbein in the first meet of the season.

Rodgers and sophomore John Wechter highlighted the season by tying Ross Siverling's 47-year-old 100-yard dash record of 9.9. Rodgers also set a new triple jump record and joined Wechter, Bob Zinkel and Dave Shultz in setting a new 440 relay record. Mike Bloodgood broke the shotput record with a toss of 50'4" and Mark Cook set a new mile mark. Matt McGowan also lowered the three-mile barrier.

In OAC competition Northern placed sixth at the Relays and 10th at the Outdoor Championships. Two Bears, Wechter and Bloodgood appeared in the Division III Nationals.

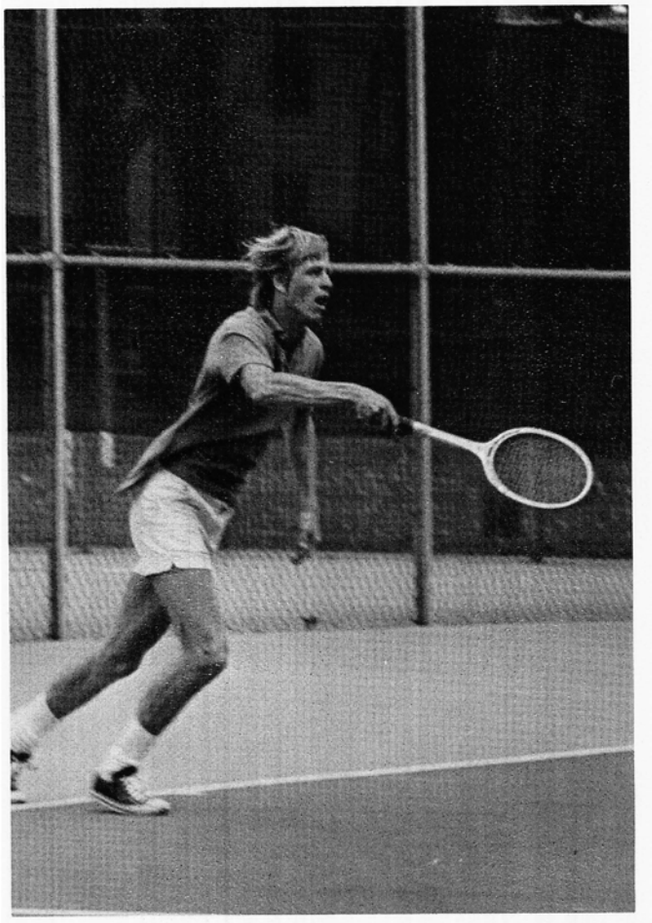
Tough Schedule Nets 4-5 Season

The men's tennis team under Coach Arden Roberson had the misfortune of being the only one of six spring sports squads to end with a losing record. The Bear netters finished with a 4-5 record.

But those losses came to major university Wright State, powerful Cedarville, and the OAC's top three finishers, Kenyon, Wittenberg, and Ohio Wesleyan. Wesleyan won the OAC title for the second year in a row while KC was second.

Ohio Northern, after a slow start in the tournament, came back to win 13 of 15 matches on the final day to place sixth overall. Consolation championships were won by Steve Seifried and Bill Adam in singles, and the doubles teams of Adam-Brooks Compton and Seifried-Scott Garrett.



Steve Seifried, the Bears winningest player in the last four years, goes deep in the back of the court to get the ball.

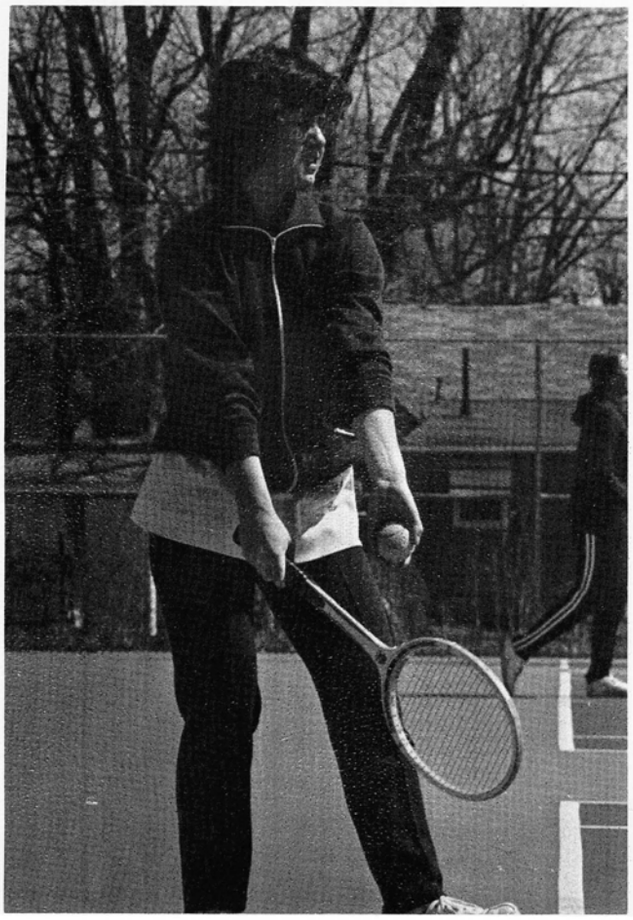
Lady Bears Enjoy Triumphs

The women's tennis team outdid its male counterpart by finishing with a 4-2 record led by top singles player Karen Kalwa. Miss Kalwa had a 5-1 record for the season, losing only in her last match.

Two other singles players did well as Ann Stark was 2-3 and Connie Compton was 2-4. Two wins over Bluffton and two over Heidelberg gave the ladies the winning margin. Losses were to Wright State and Bowling Green.



Connie Compton appears wrapped in thought as she prepares for her serve.

Ladies Enjoy a Winning Season

A Findlay pitcher by the name of Gerry Harrington kept the women's softball team from having a truly outstanding record. The Lady Bears finished 5-4 with three of those losses coming against Miss Harrington.

Included among the wins was an 8-7 upset of Ashland in the season opener and a win over Otterbein that saw ONU score 33 runs. Other victims were Muskingum, Toledo and Wright State.

Loraine Hagman did Northern's pitching, finishing with a 4-4 record. Leading batters were Carol Redick (.393) and Paula Nicley (.364).

Being a Cheerleader . . .

Cheerleading . . . rah, rah, rah!! This is the impression many people have about Northern's spirit boosters. What the average person fails to realize though, is the girls who are chosen for these duties put a lot of time and effort into preparing themselves for their regular appearances at games.

Many people wonder what attraction cheerleading holds for the girls. In some cases, it provides a form of exercise to keep them in shape over the fall and winter months. For others, it is a way to become involved in school activities. Some girls see it as a way to represent the school to the public. In most cases, the "glamour" of cheering holds a great attraction for the girls. Altogether, most girls agree that cheering gives them a chance to meet many new people and also teaches them the value of cooperation.

Each squad has a unique identity. All of the girls contribute their own personalities and ideas to give their squad its character. At times, these differences can create problems, but usually most difficulties can be resolved. The quality of the squad is determined by the competitiveness of the girls. Being "as good as someone else" is the driving force which leads each girl to perform to the best of her ability.

Even with all of the time and effort put in by the cheerleader, more is required of her than that. She must be mentally psyched for every game that she cheers at the whole year through; and this is not always the easiest thing to do. A cheerleader has to be spirited even when she doesn't feel well or has a personal problem. She has to be a model of sportsmanship when her team has obviously been cheated. To top it off, she must keep yelling and showing her support when her team, is down by 20 points with 3 minutes left in the game, and there is no hope for victory. But, as always, she never gives up until the game is over and a winner has emerged.

Being a cheerleader demands a lot from a girl. Time, energy, and emotion are drained from each girl on the squad. Victories and defeats become as important to them as they are to the team. "Go, fight, win" or lose, a cheerleader does it with a smile.

Cheerleaders can come in all sizes.

Many students come to Northern not wishing to use their time practicing for a varsity sport, yet they desire to compete and be physically active. These needs can be met by the many intramurals and interfraternity sports offered on this campus.

Greeks
We are individuals
but yet all brothers and sisters

Being A Greek

Pledging, spirit, competition, unity, partying, and friendship. . . these are only words until you put them all together for then it means being a Greek. For many of the students at O.N.U., Greek life is appealing. Perhaps the student who studies joins a fraternity because he knows he can find help if needed; and the student who parties goes Greek for involvement in the social functions. Yet there is one thing common to all Greeks, and that is the deep sense of friendship and unity. A sorority or fraternity unifies a student, but at the same time may help to develop his or her personality and individuality. Every person is considered an asset in some way. Conformity is not a goal.

To many people who do not understand Greek life pledging is seen as lots of work sessions, hell weeks, and acting as maids to a group of slave-driving brothers and sisters. What people fail to see is the way the pledges get to know and respect the brothers and sisters, or how the brothers and sisters learn to know and respect the pledges. Pledging is a different type of discipline. It's a discipline based on respect, not abuse.

There is no better feeling than to be participating in a sport and having a group of your brothers there to cheer you on. There is alot of spirit and pride not only within the fraternity and sorority as a whole, but also within each individual member.

One great quality of being a Greek is the unity between brothers and sisters. This is expressed in such ways as candlelights where you have a chance to share your happiness with all of your sisters, or when a fraternity has just won a game and there are visible signs of shaking hands and slapping each other on the back. Often times, unity is expressed by feelings that are not shown such as in tragedies or times when you are deeply hurt. Like a family, the house may have occasional "sibbling rivalry", but underneath the quarrel is a deep sense of unity and close friendship.

Competition between fraternities and sororities is another factor of Greek life. Many people feel that the competition is too stiff and causes too much friction. However, a lack of competition might lead to apathy. Competing brings excitement and unity within the groups. Greek Week is one example of competition. For Greek sings you may practice day after day. Through this you are brought together because you are working for a common cause. Sig Olympics is another aspect which adds to the excitement of competition.

Through the different functions of Greek life you gain new friendships, and it is through these friendships that you gain understanding, respect, and someone to turn to when problems arise. In the future, fraternities and sororities will continue to thrive and exist. Once you have gone away, there is no reason to stay away, because you are always welcome back. Your "place" was established when you pledged.

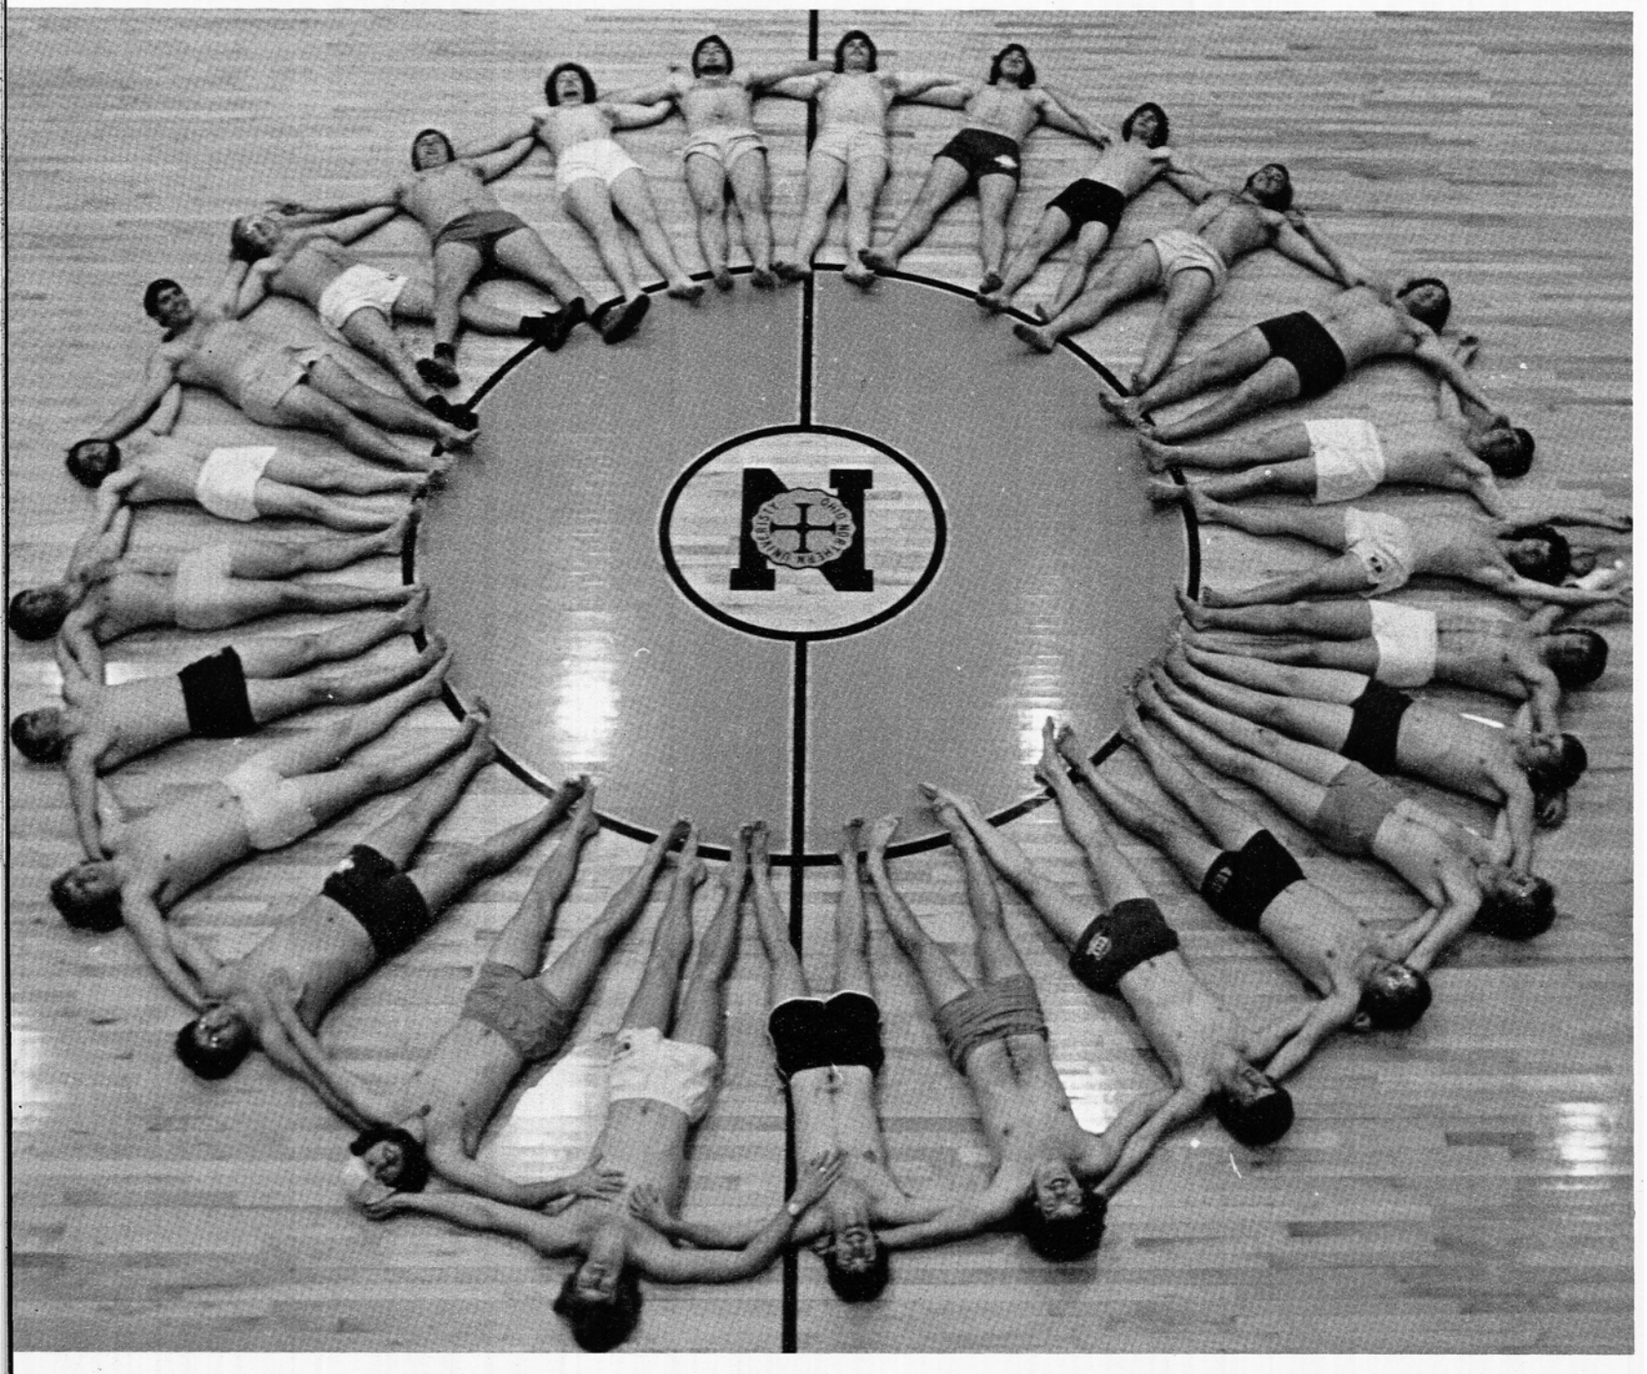
Alpha Epsilon Pi

Alpha Epsilon Pi, better known around campus as the Apes, are a bunch of spirited guys and their enthusiasm has been demonstrated through out the year at various intercollegiate athletics.

In interfraternity sports, the Apes took first place in flashball, second in billards, and had a tie for first in basketball but lost in the play-offs.

Numerous parties were held with different sororities and fraternities including their 2nd annual St. Valentines Day Massacre Party. During the spring, Kings Island was found to be the destination for their formal.

AEPi Sweetheart for the year is Clarissa Bodell, a sister of Delta Zeta.



Alpha Sigma Phi

The Gamma Alpha Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi began as a social fraternity at Ohio Northern in 1942. Brotherhood, scholarship, and sports are the key words of the house.

The Sigs were again an interfraternity sports power. They also supplied Ohio Northern Intercollegiate Sports Program with a total of 20 varsity letter winners. They took 27 new brothers into the house in 1974-75 to have 50 active brothers returning.

They held their annual Winter Formal at Scotts Inn in Lima, and Spring Formal at the French Quarter in Perrysburg. Other social events included "Sig Olympics" for Greek Week, chicken barbeque for the parents of brothers, and numerous weekend parties.

Alpha Omicron Pi

59 Sisters and yet We are I

It is the bond of Alpha Omicron Pi which unites 59 diverse people into one. Each sister is unique, but everyone's effects combine for friendship, good times and service to others. During the past year, in addition to Winter Rose Formal which was held at Columbus Hilton Inn and Spring Fling at Hueston Woods State Park, the AOPi's had parties with the PMD's, Theta Chi's, Delta Sigs, Sig Pi's, Phi Kaps, and Senior 'Gears. They also held their second annual Parent's Day. During Greek Week the AOPi's won first place for overall Greek Week activities; this included second place at Greek Sing for a medley of serious songs from "Oliver," and Holly Spriggs was elected as Greek Week Queen.

The AOPi's helped with the local March of Dimes drive, sponsored the AOPi Jail at Campus Chest, supported their National Philanthropy the Arthritis Foundation, and gave an Easter party for Headstart children with the PMD's.

Delta Sigma Phi is a social fraternity that has been on the campus for 25 years. The fraternity participates in intrafraternity sports as well as other events. This past year the Delts took first place in horse-shoes, second place in bowling, and second place in ping-pong. Formals were held at Covington, Kentucky and Kings Island. Father-son weekend was held in the spring. The Delts partied with all the sororities, and had a canoe trip with the KY's. Their sweetheart is Kathi King, a Delta Zeta.

Kappa Psi

The Kappa Psi's returned to a rousing year of events that began early fall quarter and continued until graduation. Fall quarter's social activities included parties with the sisters of Alpha Xi Delta, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Delta Zeta. Winter Formal was held at The Lincoln Lodge in Columbus. A Christmas banquet was also held for the pharmacy faculty and their families.

Over spring break, the KY's had the honor of sponsoring a drug trip for all pharmacy students to the Eli Lilly Pharmaceutical Company. Included on the spring calendar were parties with the Delta Zeta's and the Alpha Xi's. A program on cancer, which was viewed over a local television station, was also produced by the brothers.

Spring Fling concluded the social activities for spring quarter. Mrs. Linda Infantino was announced the new sweetheart for the coming year.

The Alpha Xi Delta's started the year off getting involved in Homecoming activities. Daryl DuBois was our representative on the Homecoming Court. To follow the theme Over the Rainbow, the sisters worked on a float portraying the Emerald City. Winter Rose Formal was held in Toledo, where our new sweetheart, Larry Mohr, was crowned. Alpha Xi participated in Campus Chest again this year by entering their booth, "Mr. Campus Chest." Malana Senuik was the winner of the Theta Chi's "Sweetheart of Campus Chest." During Greek Week the sisters sponsored a jump rope contest at Greek Olympics and won second place Originality in Greek Sing for "Barefootin'," a hill-billy number. During the year, the Fuzzies held a Christmas party for underprivi ledged children with the Sig Ep's, a Cowboy and Indian party with the Alpha Sig's, a pajama party with the Phi Kap's, a hill-billy party with the Kappa Psi's and a road rally with the Theta Chi's, among other parties with the fraternities.

This year Phi Kappa Theta had its 50th anniversary at Ohio Northern. Bill Zimmerman represented the Phi Kaps for Homecoming King candidate and also as a Greek King candidate. The winter pledges held their annual Pledge Princess Dance, electing Cindy Lusk as their Pledge Princess. The Spring Quarter was started off with a Pajama Party with the Alpha Xi's, and continued with various other parties. The winter formal was held in Toledo, with the spring formal being held in Covington, Kentucky. Along with the spring formal came tickets for a Cincinnati baseball game for the day after the forma!. The Brothers replaced outgoing sweetheart Katy Shepherd with the 75-76 sweetheart Cindy Lusk.

Phi Mu Delta

The Brothers of Phi Mu Delta were very active on campus this year. We started this year's involvement with the celebration of the tenth anniversary of our house on the circle. Many alumni returned at Homecoming to relive old memories and meet the new brothers. In the Homecoming decorations competition, our float won the Grand Marshall Award.

In the area of service, we held a Muscular Dystrophy bike-a-thon, raising more than $175.00. We also housed the Adrian basketball team over Christmas, as well as prospective freshmen throughout the year. At Easter time we sponsored an egg hunt for children from the Head Start program in Lima. As always, we participated in the Campus Chest activities.

P.M.D.'s were actively involved in various Organizations on campus, a few being the Northern Review, The Northern, Student Senate, and the Interfraternity Council.

Participating in all interfraternity sports, our house came away with firsts in tennis, ping-pong, and billiards, with a second place in golf, while placing third in track, swimming, and wrestting.

During Greek Week, we sponsored the third annual P.M.D. Talent Show. Our involvement in the other Greek Week activities rewarded us with a first place overall for the week's activities.

Our Winter Formal was held in Bellefontaine where Holly Spriggs was named our Sweetheart. Spring Formal was held in Columbus.

The Phi Mu Delta house grew by thirty-three this year, with that many new brothers being initiated.

We finished the year with a retirement dinner for Dr. Darlington and our first annual parent's day. Looking back over the year, we are proud of our involvement.

Delta Zeta

Delta Zeta really was "Award Winning" in 1974-75. The year was off to a great start with the DZ candidate, Sally Grenell, on the Homecoming Court. Throughout fall quarter, they participated in many campus activities, and still managed to have the highest overall grades on campus, for which they received The President's Award for Scholarship. Both pledges and sisters were active in all sports.

Four Delta Zetas were Fraternity Sweethearts for 1975-75, Mary Milne, Alpha Sigma Phi; Kathi King, Delta Sigma Phi; Clarissa Bodell, Alpha Epsilon Pi; and Marty Crawford, Theta Chi.

Their annual Spring Formal was held in Delaware, Ohio and Chuck Daum, Beau Nighswander, and Steve Layman were elected DZ Men of the Year. During Greek Week the DZ's "ate" their way to first places in the Gobble Game and Pie-Eating Contest.

The '74-'75 school year has been a very productive one for the Sig Ep's. For the second year in a row, they have received the President's Scholastic Award. The annual Christmas party for the underpriviledged children was a great success, as was the collection for Muscular Dystrophy. These and other merits enabled them to win the Dean's trophy. Mrs. Olga "Mom" Bentley enjoyed her 18th year as housemother, and a surprise party celebrating her birthday was held in her honor. Highlights of the year in sports were first in swimming, track, and softball in the inter-fraternity league.

During 1974-75 the Sig Pi's had many big parties along with participating in Homecoming. One of the brothers, Al Donhoff, was Campus Chest King.

Again excelling in sports, the Pi's finished among the top for Greek All Sports.

They held their formal in Columbus, and in May took a canoe trip near Cincinatti. Their Sweetheart is Liz Jacobs.

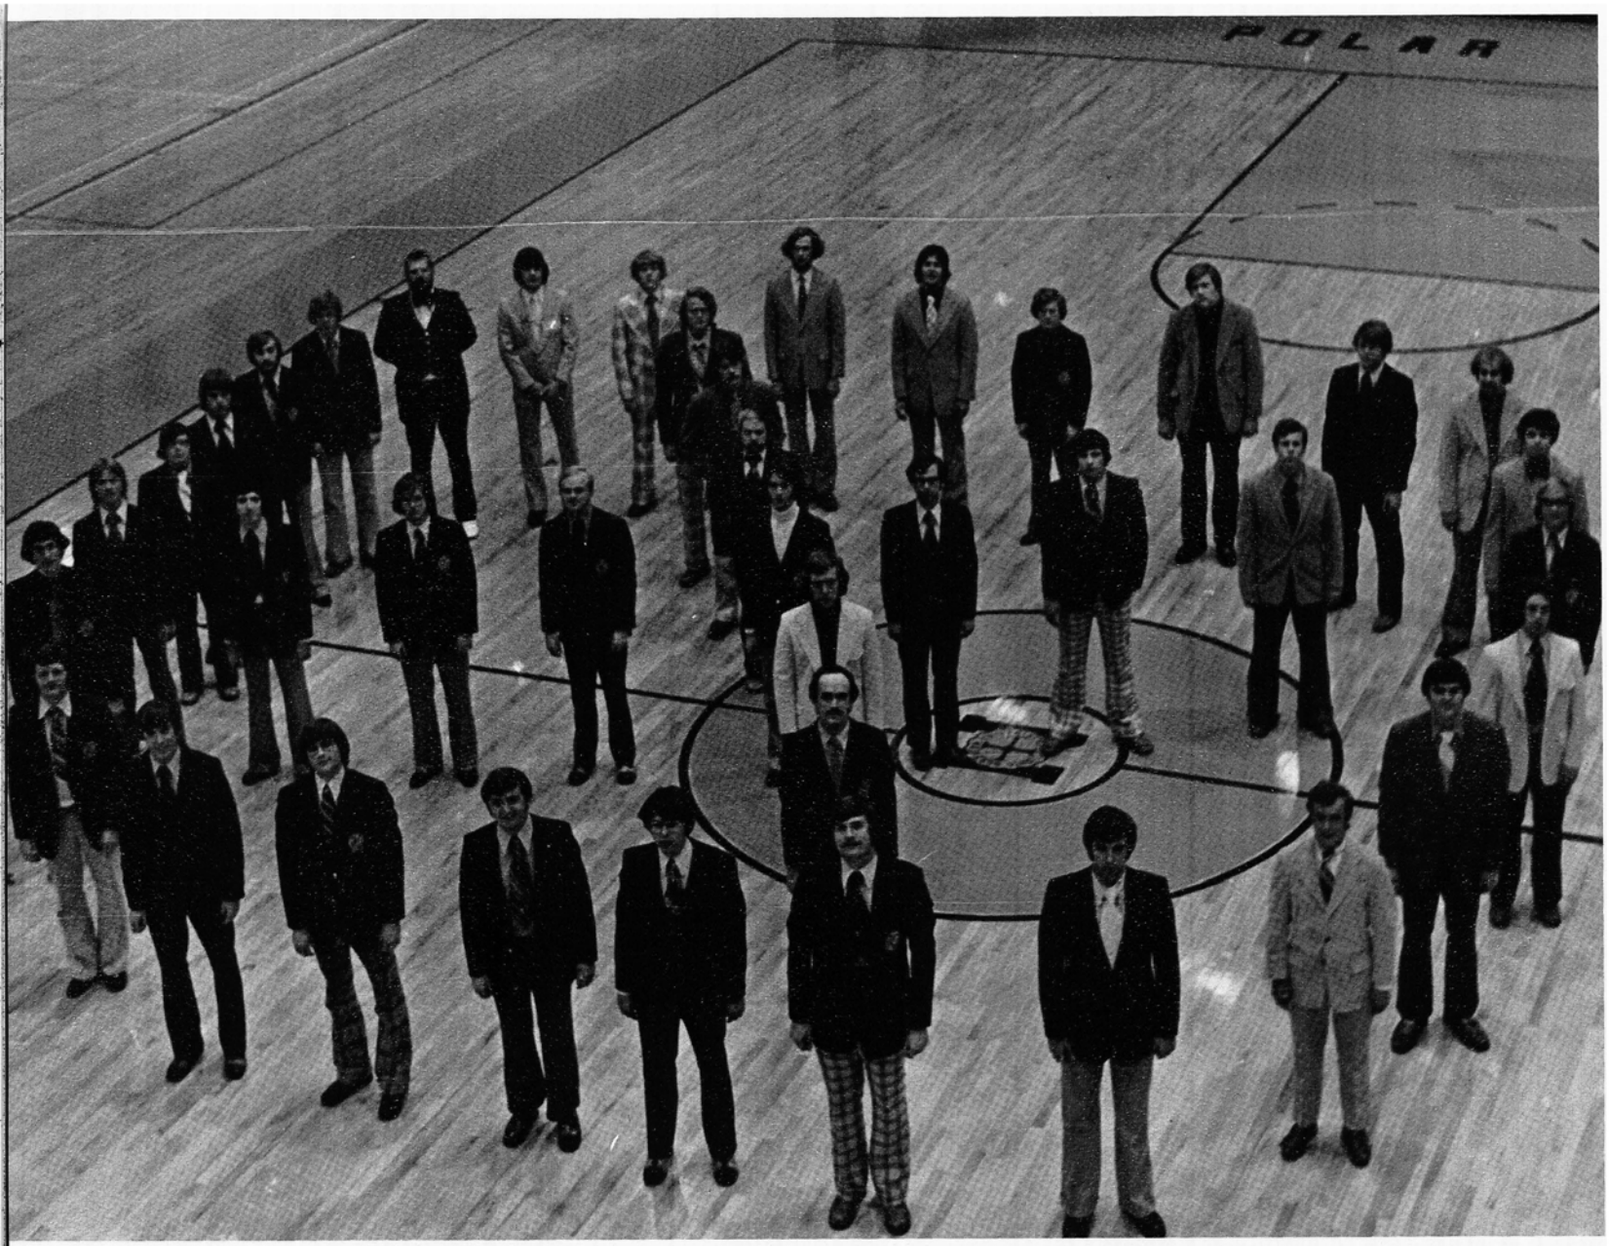
The 1974-75 school year brought lots of fun and activities for the Zeta's. During Homecoming the Zeta's float won the "Most Orginial" theme division. Later that winter the Zeta Pledge basketball team won the championship in intramural competition. In the spring, the Zeta's won first place in Originality in Greek Sing, where they presented a medlay of children's fairy tales.

Throughout the year the Zeta's participated in several service projects. During Campus Chest, the sister's "Kissing Booth" and pledges' "Shoeshine Booth" added to the fun and funds for charity. Zetas donated to the Xenia Fund and collected for the Mothers' March of Dimes. Later in the year, fund raising projects were started to support their National Philanthropy, The National Foundation For Mentally Retarded.



The brothers of Theta Chi had a good start this year. Senior Mike Keener was nominated to Homecoming Court, and they partied with each sorority at least once. Their annual Dream Girl Formal was in Bellefontaine at the Holiday Inn where Marty Crawford was chosen as Dream Girl. This year ended on a good "note" as they won Greek Sing and Rich Erb won Greek King. They also ran the First Annual Pick-A-Prof Contest.

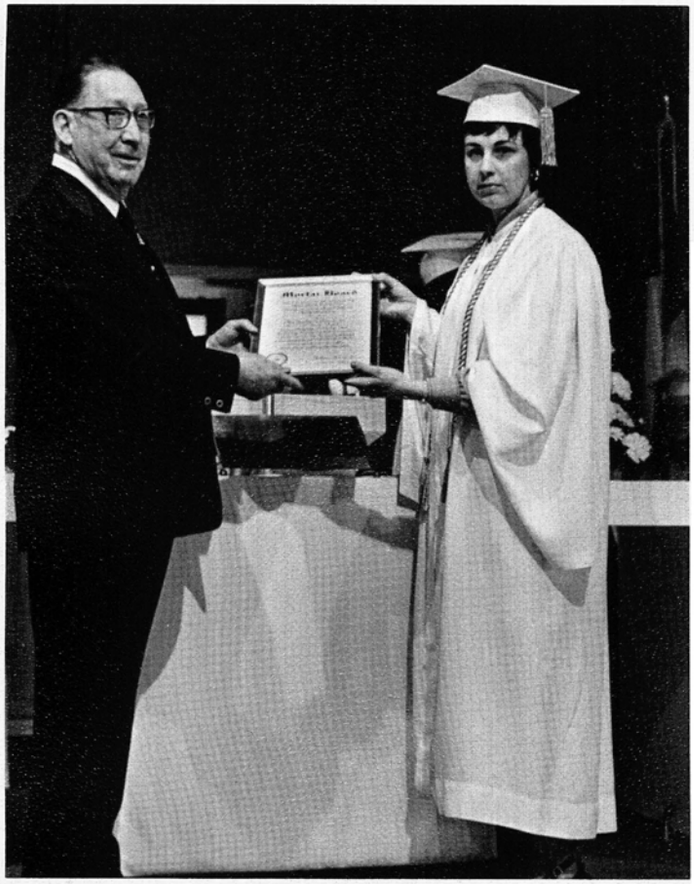
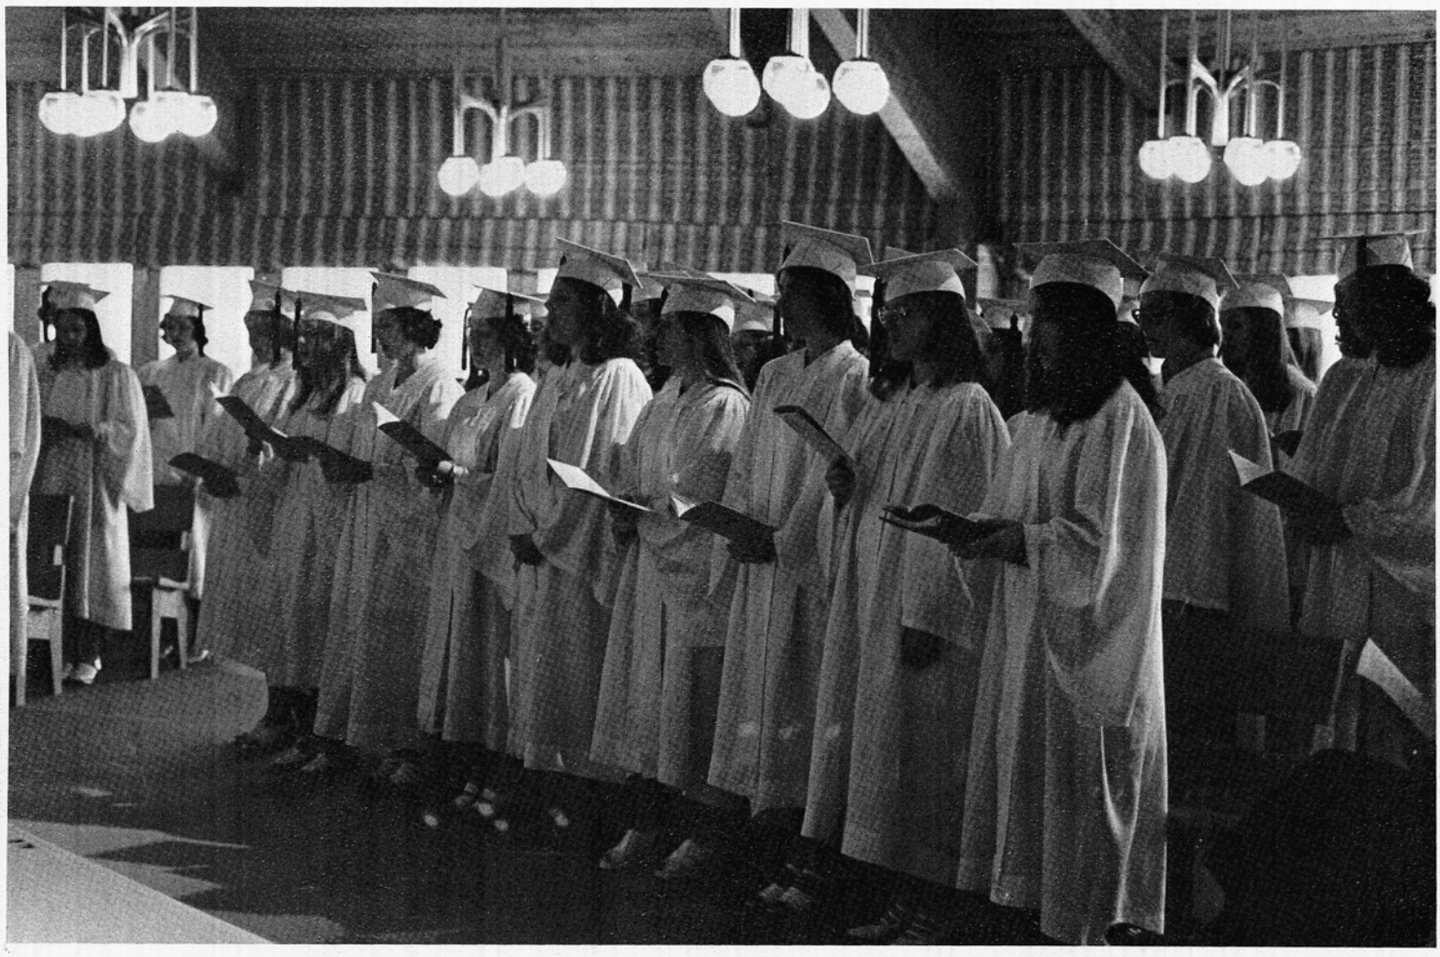
Students can get involved in many musical organizations.



Aurora becomes Mortar Board with Dr. Meyer receiving the charter from Dr. Marylu McEwen, national director of expansion for Mortar Board.

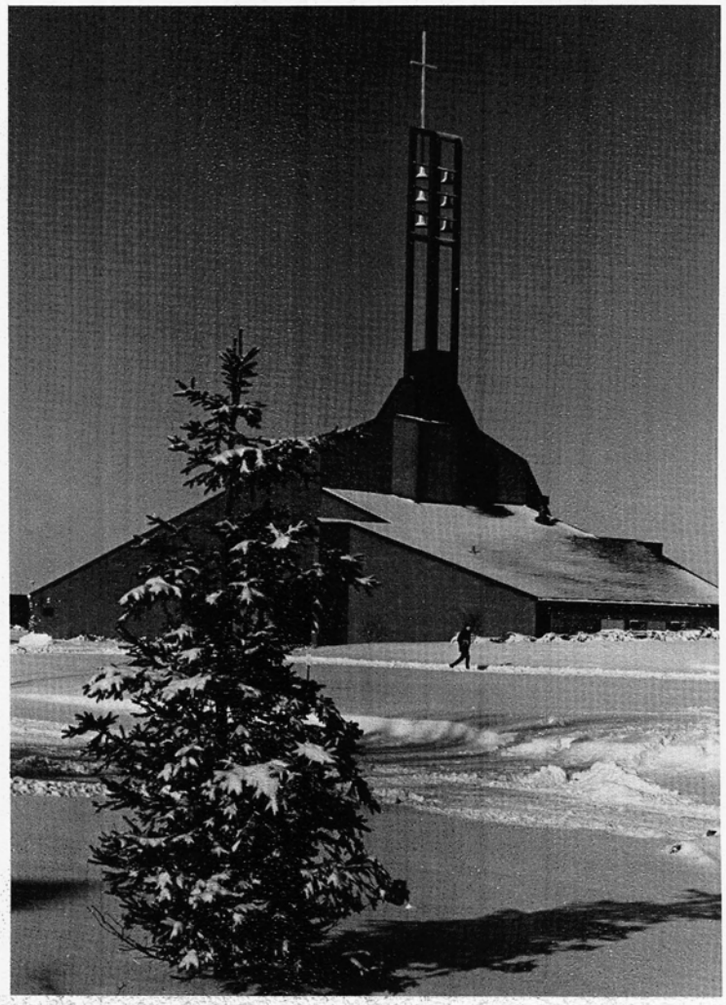
Aurora Becomes a Chapter of Mortar Board.

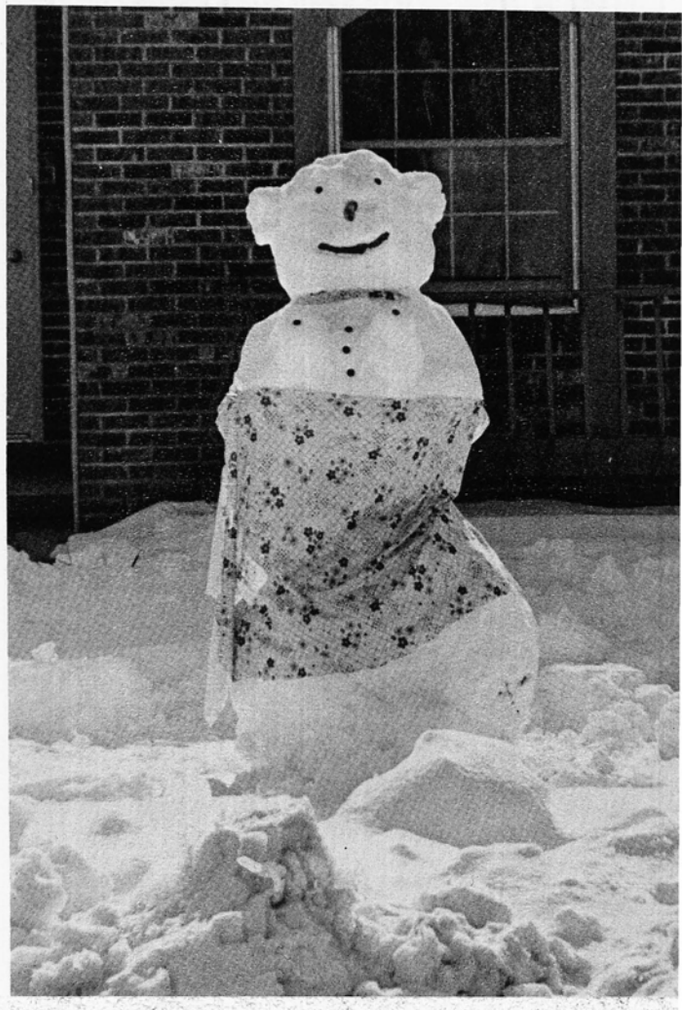
In 1966, Aurora, a local senior women's honorary society, was established at Ohio Northern. Anticipating their eventual request to petition for membership as a chapter of Mortar Board, the national senior women's honorary society, the charter members patterned Aurora after the high standards of Mortar Board. Its purpose was and is, to promote college loyalty, to advance the spirit of service and fellowship among universiity women, to promote and maintain a high standard of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college woman. Before Aurora could be considered for membership into Mortar Board, it had to be in existence for at least seven years. Then, in 1973 Aurora's petition for membership was submitted to Mortar Board. During the 1973-4 academic year, a national representative was sent to Ohio Northern for further evaluation. In the summer of 1974, Aurora was notified of the National Council's favorable vote. On May 20, 1975 Aurora officially became a chapter of Mortar Board.

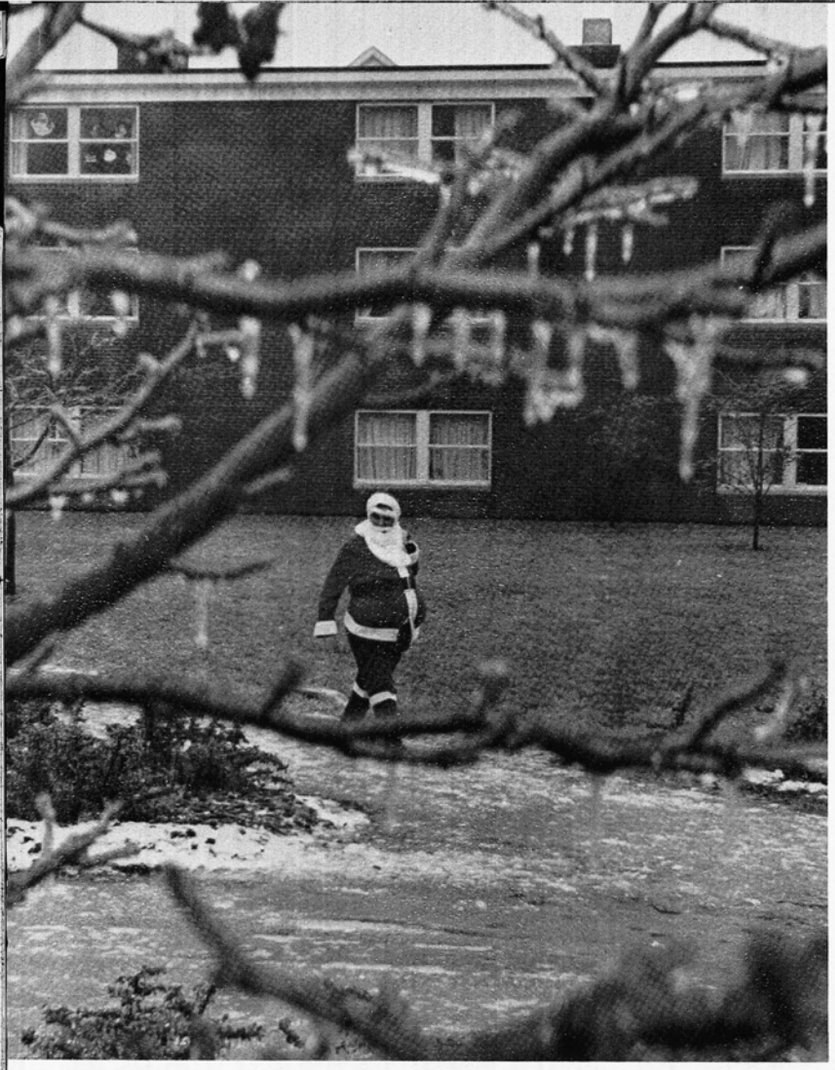


Battling the Elements

Opening the door, you know it's going to be one of those days. The winds of Ada that playfully whipped your hair around fall quarter, have now turned bitterly cold. You dread battling the arctic weather, but one must get to class. Walking to King Horn the icy winds cut through your clothes, urging you to hurry to shelter. While crossing the tundra, one is surrounded by faceless bodies bundled in parkas to ward off the cold. Then you see them, three of your friends walking in your direction. Saying hi as you pass, you are suddenly pelted with snowballs by those "friends." A minor battle ensues, then it's off to classes again. Finally, after trudging through the heavy snow you reach King Horn and warmth. Then you are reminded, in 50 minutes you must travel to Dukes, once again battling the wind, snow, and flying snowballs.







Santa Arrives

Along with the cold, comes a jolly old man dressed in red. This gent, with his hair of white and long flowing beard, bring joy to many. I am speaking of none other than old St. Nick. Santa stops at Northern every Christmas to listen to the requests of all the kids at heart.

Campus Chest

Innocently, I entered the Activities room in McIntosh to see what was going on. I wasn't there more than a minute when I was surrounded by young men in ties with hats on. Then all of a sudden, they pulled out these forty-five caliber water pistols and let me have it. I had just gotten over the initial shock when I was surrounded by girls. Now, I didn't complain at all until they threw me in jail. It was then that I found out about Campus Chest, an annual fund raising event for various charities. The Greek organizations had set up different booths offering various services, such as shoe shining, a harem backrub, and as I found out, hired hit men, to name just a few. These services could be purchased for a small fee with all of the proceeds going to charity. Eventually, I escaped from the jail and enjoyed myself. You know, it's kind of fun throwing a pie in one of your professor's face.

C.B.O.G.

If you look at your calendar and see something like, "sundaes on Wednesday," or "Spin Your Wheels," you have good reason to believe that C.B.O.G. has been hard at work. The Center Board of Governors is an innovative group of individuals whose intent is to keep students active. They accomplish this by providing a vast array of social functions ranging from concerts and dances to car rallys and scavenger hunts. These many activities offer the students a break from the study grind and allow them to relax and meet their fellow students.

Northern's Stage

Interest in productions of the theatre department continued to grow this year taxing the facilities of Lehr auditorium to the limit. Opening the department's season was the serious drama "A Doll's House" by Henrik Ibsen, a play that examined the explosive message that marriage was not sacrosanct, that a man's authority in his home should not go unchallenged, and that the prime duty of a man or woman is to find out who he or she really is, then to become that individual.

Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap," now the longest running play on the London stage, was the second play offered by the university players. Clues dropped like bait to snare the delighted and near capacity audiences into suspecting everyone in the cast of murder. But not until the end of the mystery was the trap sprung and the rat caught.

The third play pulled all the stops. "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" combined the talents of the drama department with the music department for one of the wackiest musical shows ever performed. Drama, sight gags, music, jokes, slapstick, dancing, singing, ... the show had it all. Even the orchestra laughed through the final performance.

The major theatre productions at Northern during 1974-5 molded the talents of many individuals, students as well as faculty and staff, into an enlightening and entertaining series of professionally performed dramatic events.

When Conditions Are Right

Conditions were right one wintery day. It was an unusually warm January day. The practice football field was water soaked with recently melted snow. There also were over forty Northern students with nothing to do. These conditions naturally led to the most gruelling, mean, dirty, and enjoyable game invented by mankind, "Mud Football". Both teams, out for blood and eager to get muddy, clashed, slipping and sliding around the field. The final outcome: both teams zero, one muddy practice field, and some forty odd muddy students.

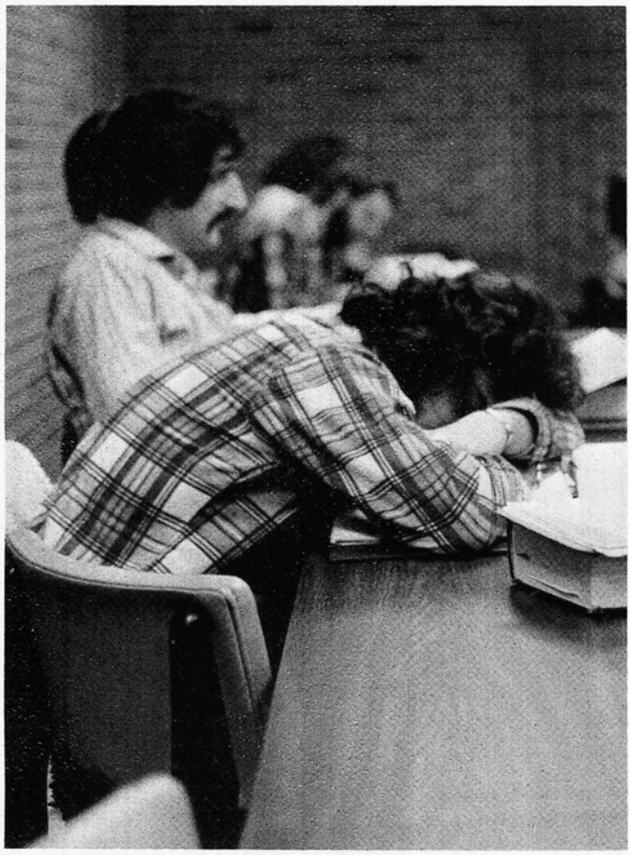
"The first year they scare you to death, the second year they work you to death, and the third year they bore you to death . . . "



A look around Claude W. Pettit only affirms those few simple statements – they really tell it all. That panicky and worried look on the first year students face as he blindly gropes from one end of the library to the other in search of seemingly invisible authority expresses the fear that he will be called on in class. And he just can't "pass," so he methodically and superbly writes out each and every brief, and it probably will take all night – but what is sleep, anyway? The diligent second year student learns, however, that efficiency is a high priority when it comes to jotting down a short brief. His work is extensive, but his method is solidified into a real orderly process. Fear is passé, and a "pass" really isn't so bad. But it is the third year student who is occasionally seen between this legal aid program or that backgammon tournament, or this clerking job or that good BS in the lounge or the Law Review office. It has been three years of preparation for him, three years of getting a brief down to a thought in his mind, picking out this or that point of law and then questioning it, shepardizing every little case, writing appellate briefs, and generally "practicing" how to be a lawyer. He thinks like a lawyer, he acts like a lawyer (occasionally), and now he itches to be that lawyer. And nothing will satisfy that itch until he finally passes that Bar examination. For the first year student, his future is still out "there" somewhere, but for the graduating third year, the future is "here."

Law Review keeps expanding

The Ohio Northern University Law Review is a quarterly publication which is student edited. Encompassed within the scope of the journal are comments on different areas of the law, a yearly review of all Ohio Supreme Court decisions in the first issue of every volume, and case notes on important United States and Ohio Supreme Court decisions.

Articles are contributed by students and faculty of the law school, and are solicited from practicing attorneys, judges, and noted authorities outside the university.

The Law Review has greatly expanded from an intramural publication only two years ago to the present four-issue volume. Its over 1500 subscribers include members of the Federal and Ohio judiciary, law libraries both in the United States and abroad, as well as a substantial number of Ohio attorneys.

At the annual Honors Day Banquet awards were presented to George I. Koury, as the Outstanding Law Review member, and Orla E. Collier III, for excellence in legal journalism.

Aside from the Editorial Board, other members include: Associate Editors – Mary P. Albert, Mary K. Hammond, Michael L. Hanley, John E. Henriksen, Charles D. Lynch, Robert B. MacDonald, Jr., Carolyn V. Minter, Richard H. Wallace, Jonathan L. Williams, Fred Antoun, Jr., Larry F. Boord, Howard J. Boruta, William C. Cramer, Jr., Steven C. Elliott, Chris R. Gullen, Ronald L. The First Amendment: The unofficial official news

The 1st Amendment is the Student Bar Association's newspaper, the law student's voice. The functions of this "underground" newspaper are threefold: to inform, to entertain, and to serve as a platform for student expression. The 1st Amendment contains hearsay, humor, happenings and generally anything that is within the bounds of good taste in addition to serving as a sounding board for student opinions. The newspaper is published once a month by interested and talented law students.

Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, Franklin B. Willis Chapter, is a professional fraternity and has little in common with an undergraduate social fraternity aside from the underlying principle of brotherhood. To fulfill the object of professionalism the "PADS" have monthly luncheons with speakers from various areas within the legal profession, in addition to supplemental speakers and programs throughout the year. The PADS also provide study and review sessions for first year students along with an active social schedule to benefit the brotherhood.

Student Bar Association rejuvenated under new leadership

No matter how hard a student may try, whether a student likes it or not, he / she is involved in faculty – student relations. It is upon this premise that the Student Bar Association bases its commitment to facilitate these relationships. The success of any school is dependent upon the united thinking and action of the administrators, the faculty and the student.

Since December, this administration has worked diligently to gain the support of the students, and the respect of the faculty. They have worked many hours to revive the various committees, the rent referral and spouse job referral programs. They have sought to invigorate the representatives on the Faculty-Student Committees with the need to provide the best and most active representation possible.

They have constantly sought out ways to ascertain student viewpoints, and to instill them with realization that their viewpoints should be expressed, and subsequently realized through the leadership of the Student Bar Association.

"We have been very active, and therefore we have been controversial. We have made good decisions, and we have made bad ones. We feel, though, that we have accomplished our two main goals: getting the students talking about their student government again, and putting the Student Bar Association in working order. It is for those two reasons that we see the Student Bar Association playing an active role in the future of the Pettit College of Law."

"Women can walk unaccompanied on campus in the evening." I had read it in the Law School Data Assembly guide, and chuckled, for at the time my undergraduate school was going through a "rape hysteria." I didn't know much abour Ohio Northern or the Law School, but something made me apply even though I had never been west of New York City. Somehow I found my way across the frontier to ADA, not at all the kind of place I expected to find a law school, but at first sight the kind of school where being yourself and finding yourself might be possible.

I was informed that the upperclasswomen could be counted on my fingers and toes and that generally, the men were unaccustomed to tolerating women in their professional midsts. My initial reaction wasn't whether I was ready for law school, but whether Claude W. Pettit was ready for me. I was also informed that there were 38 of "us" out of a class of 200 at orientation. I hadn't really noticed as I was too worried about getting my reading and briefing done for orientation classes, still too naive to know better.

So now, what is it like to be a woman among a profession of countless men? I really didn't have much time to consider the implications initially with all the work mixed with the fear of flunking out, and besides, I had never been prejudiced against before in my educational endeavors, so why should I have expected a change? And, happily, I have not found one. We are all equals in the classroom, even though a few professors might be afraid to admit it. I spend more time questioning my desire to be a legal scholar not because of male prejudice, but because it seems I need every waking moment to brief, outline, understand all the implications of the law, and to be me, in addition to catching the 40 winks of sleep I missed the night before.

That fact that I am a woman, however has brought me free admittance to law frat parties (and without those breaks I might have gone stark crazy). And, too, because of sheer numbers, most of my friends are men (I came from a college where there were seven girls to every guy). Of course in our initial meetings many of 'their facial expressions seemed to ask, "just what type of woman goes to law school when she could be a teacher or something?" But then again, my expressions were probably asking "what kind of man goes to Ohio Northern?"

I near the end of my first grueling year as a woman at Claude W. Pettit College of Law, and my only complaint is that I can't play softball with the fellows this year, but next year...

The Writ is published quarterly, and contains articles of interest concerning students, faculty, and alumni. In addition, a section of each issue is devoted to editorial commentary, recent significant court decisions, and current societal developments affecting the legal profession.

The Writ is the major artery between the law school and its alumni, and thus has a vast circulation outside the law school community.

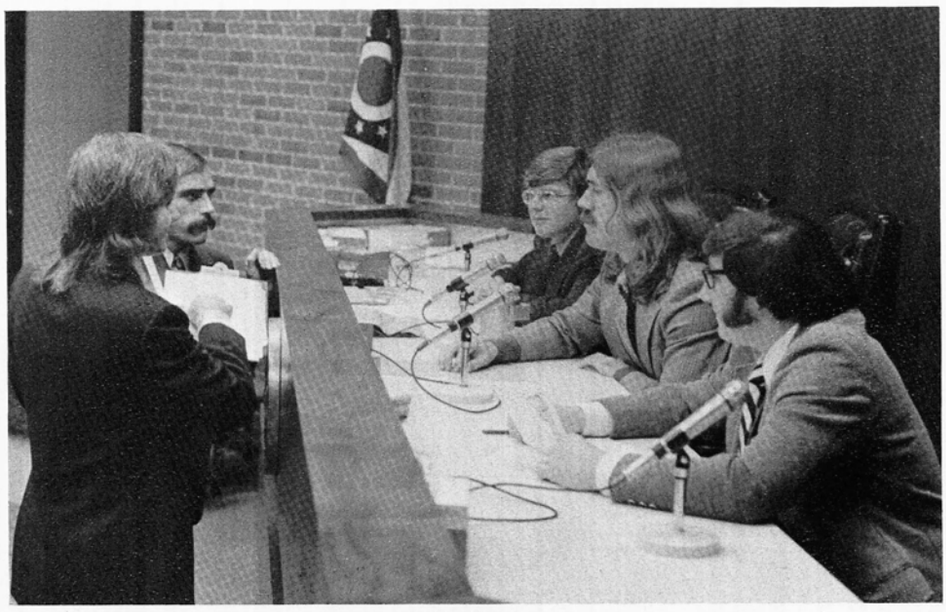
Moot Court team joins in national competition

During the late summer of 1974 preparations began for the National Moot Court competition which was held in the latter part of November. A common and timely "moot" (dead) fact situation was submitted to each law school in the country and team members then proceeded to research, develop arguments, write and finally submit a Supreme Court quality brief to their regional "court" for evaluation. Shortly thereafter two three-man teams traveled from Ohio Northern to Toledo to present their oral arguments. This year the team also sponsored a Client Counseling experience and Spring Argument participation in Cincinnati.



Moot Court advocates Jim Pelstring and Bob Guendelsberger check argumentation material with third year students Chris Hawk, Stu Ball, and Bill Cramer.

Delta Theta Phi is a national professional legal fraternity with ninety-six student senates and seventy-four alumni senates. Membership in the national fraternity presents the student with benefits during law school, as well as after graduation. The local senate is service-oriented in that it attempts to aid all students and especially freshmen through review sessions prior to exams, in addition to a supplemental series of speaker programs, featuring alumni and faculty. This year the Delts offered many social functions including T.G.I.F.'s at the TapRoom, sports tournaments, and parties with undergraduate organizations.

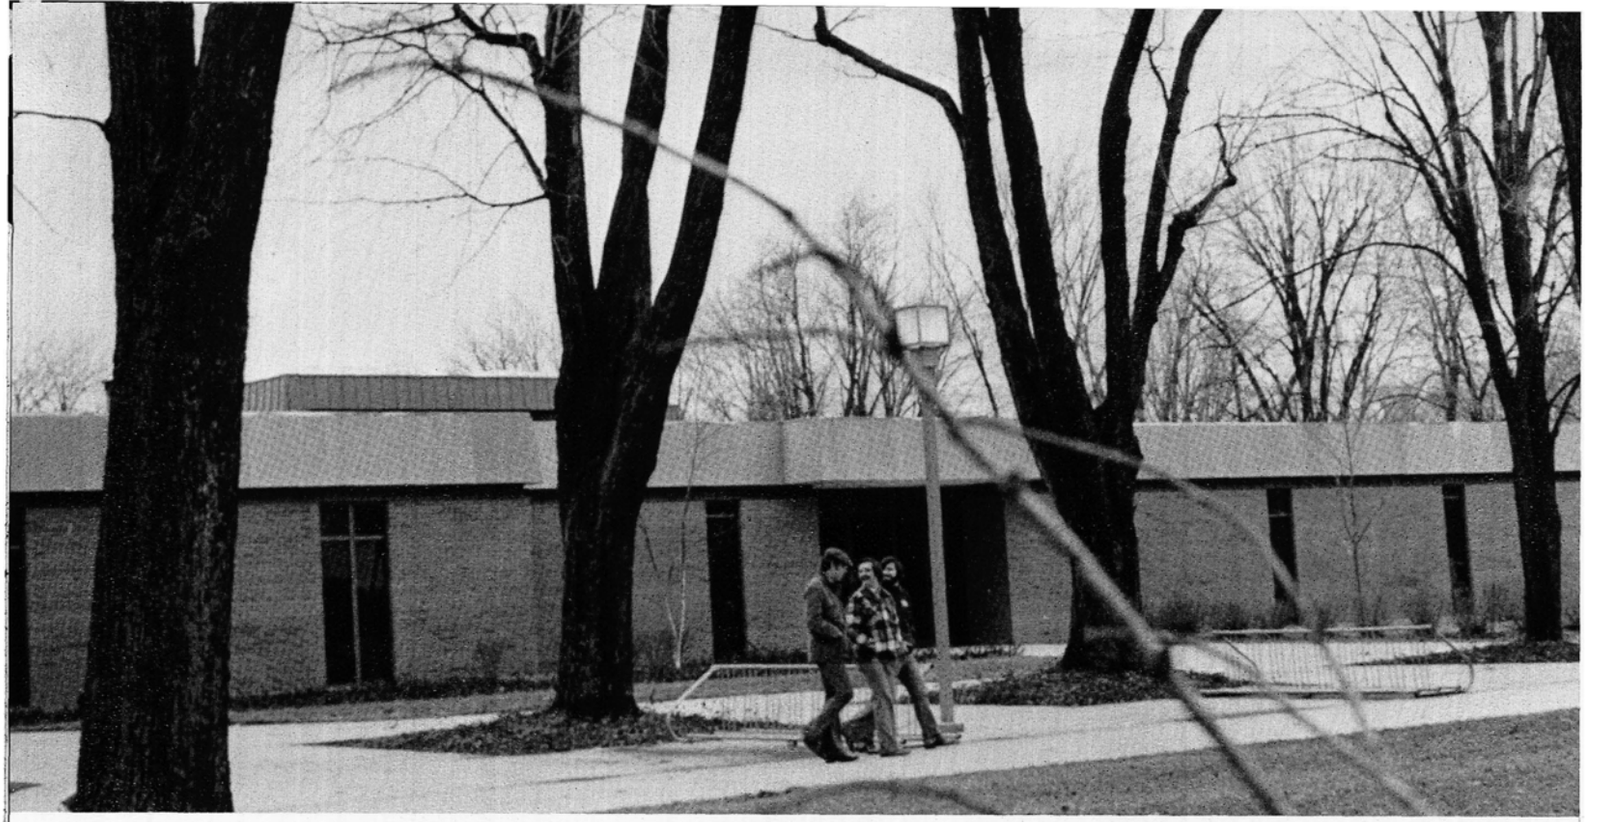
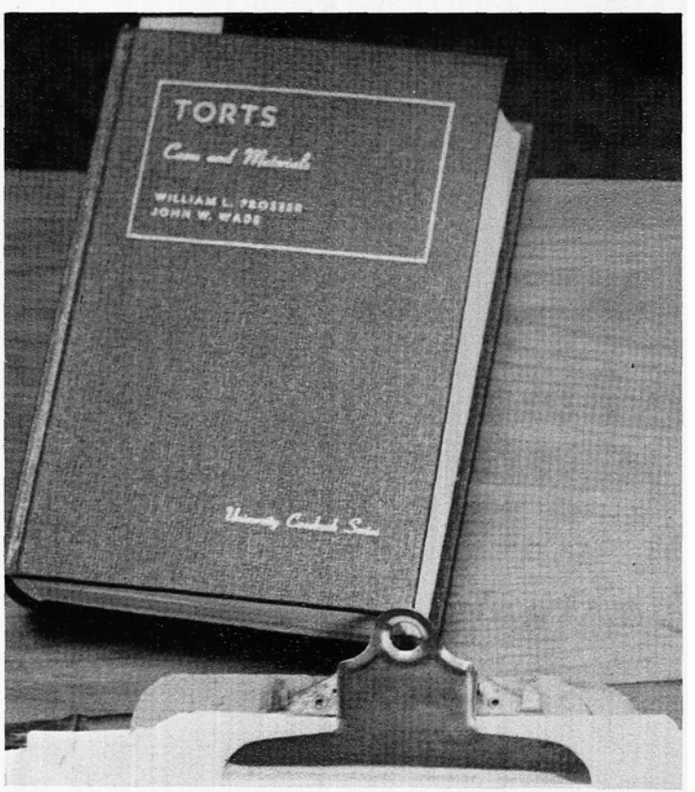
"Fat Little Alphonse" unveiled in lounge ceremony

The Claude W. Pettit College of Law now has a second Alphonse courtesy of the classes of 1976 and 1977. The current juniors and freshmen donated enough money to buy "Fat Little Alphonse," a statue created by Herb Lauer, an undergraduate art major at ONU. The work, as its name implies, is a sculptured caricature of Dean Alphonse Squillante. The statue was presented to the law school at an informal ceremony on the 4th of April, along with a plaque which read: "Fat Little Alphonse" Donated by the Classes of 1976 and 1977.

Dean Squillante, who obviously enjoyed himself at what turned out to be an informal "roast," thanked the students who bought the statue and extended his appreciation to the Student Bar Association which donated the plaque. The Dean, adding to the humorous mood of the ceremony, commented that he had been trying to meet the "young man who made this" for a long time. Plans were then made for displaying the statue in the law library.





Books close on long year at Claude W. Pettit

It was a long and overly eventful year at the Claude W. Pettit College of Law. It started with the admission of 30 summer qualifiers as members of the largest freshman class in the school's history – 200 students. A fall tragedy left two faculty vacancies. The two law frats held beer blasts after blasts, with and without music. Former Dean Hanson officially resigned from the faculty after a year's visiting professorship at McGeorge School of Law. Students found a crippling Thanksgiving snow storm a hurdle" to returning at Winter quarter. The Summer School program was reestablished to help already impoverished students to graduate two quarters early. A new SBA president "swept" student elections with an 18 pt. progress plan. Annual Barrister's Ball hosted 250 couples at the "social event of the year" – and put the SBA $1600 in debt, but it was worth every last bottle of it. The Law Review and the Moot Court Team made great strides in national participation. Controversy over the size of diplomas ended with the retention of the large ones. The SBA revision of the Constitution was defeated. Showing of renowned movies in the Moot Court Room lured overwhelming numbers which necessitated a second showing. First year students Bob Bull and Jack Wolfe won the doubles tennis tournament, and Bull also captured the racketball championship. Third year Tom Townley swept the first annual backgammon competition over Dave Evans. Nolo Contendre won the University Volleyball competition. Voir Dire won the Law School Basketball competition and The Bobcats won the Law School Softball competition. The Bear Cubs placed second in the University Women's Volleyball competition while the Towle's Troop tied for first place in the Co-Ed division. Honor Code revision makes it a "felony" to include anything but your exam number as identification on all exams. Dean Squillante announced his resignation. Professor Baillis was appointed Acting Dean. Gary Williams resigned as SBA President. And the beat goes on . .

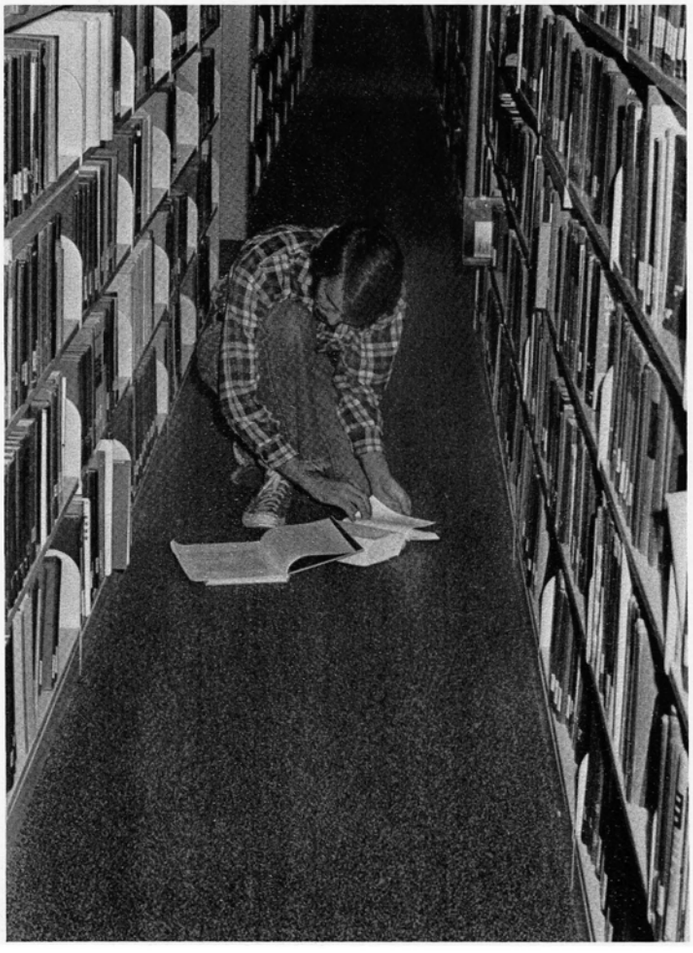
The Professor and the Empty Seats



Reactions to empty seats in the classroom differ widely according to individual professors. Responses may range from ego deflation and anxiety about job security to cynicism about students and disillusionment with the teaching profession.

For instance, a professor might blame himself for his predicament: "What am I doing wrong? . . . Maybe I used the same joke one quarter too long. Maybe I need to rekindle that old spark I once had so students will start attending again . . . But what will my department chairman say when he learns about these empty seats? I'm not on tenure, and never will be at this rate. What will my colleagues say? I'm sure they've never faced this problem. Why didn't I go into business or stay in grad school longer? Woe is me!"

On the other hand he may shift the blame onto his students: "Those stupes just don't know what they're missing. I've taught this course a thousand times and my notes are polished, my timing perfect. They'll really be sorry they didn't come to class when those intelligent, perceptive students who are here tell them what happened . . . But when they do find out they'll come trooping to my office, and that'll take a lot of my time, time I could use playing racket ball or golf or solving the problems of the world in the Faculty Lounge. Well, that's the price of being successful, I guess."

Indeed the problem of poor attendance inspires a great deal of soul-searching on the part of the conscientious professor; however a more typical reaction is a combination of the two extremes cited above. While the professor is prompted to attribute irresponsibility solely to his students, he realizes that he must also consider how he has failed as a professor, thus acknowledging that student and professor share equally the responsibility for learning.

Ultimately, he will recognize that class attendance is a matter concerning not only himself and his students but the university as a whole; that, in fact, it has long caused controversy in the academic community and has inspired various solutions. Some professors, for instance, favor mandatory attendance for all classes. Others suggest that students be allowed a certain number of cuts per quarter without penalty.

My own reaction to attendance, one which I think is shared by most members of our faculty, is that I expect but do not require students to attend classes. I hope that my class does make a difference to the student, that he cannot learn the same material on his own without classroom interaction, specific assignments, and exposure to various points of view. I hope that he regards class as an enjoyable experience – after all, learning can be fun and profitable at the same time.

Occassional absences are understandable – students do get sick, families do have problems, automobiles do break down, and once in a great while students do oversleep. These things are all understandable and the professor is not likely to become excited over infrequent absences.

No, it is the seat that is empty day in and day out that concerns the conscientious professor. And, more often than not, the professor is genuinely concerned about the welfare of the student rather than the fact that he is absent.

Most professors want to help, whether the seat is occupied or empty. While being of service to the student is easier when the student attends regularly, the empty seat may be a signal to the professor that even more help is needed. The question then is whether the professor, along with the student, will heed that signal.

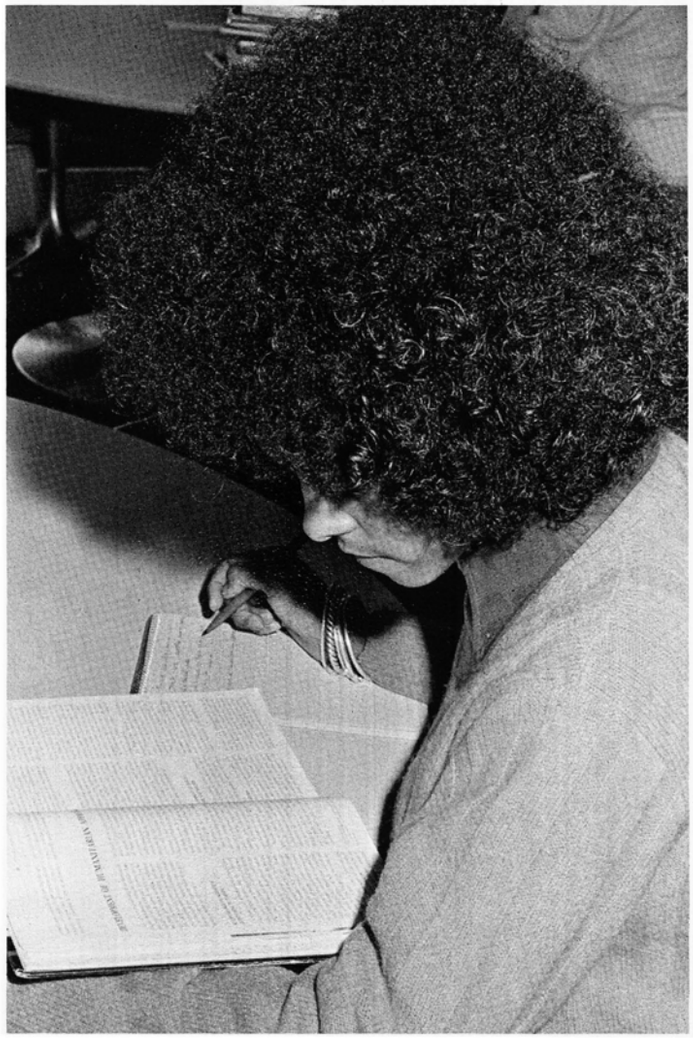
Cutting Classes



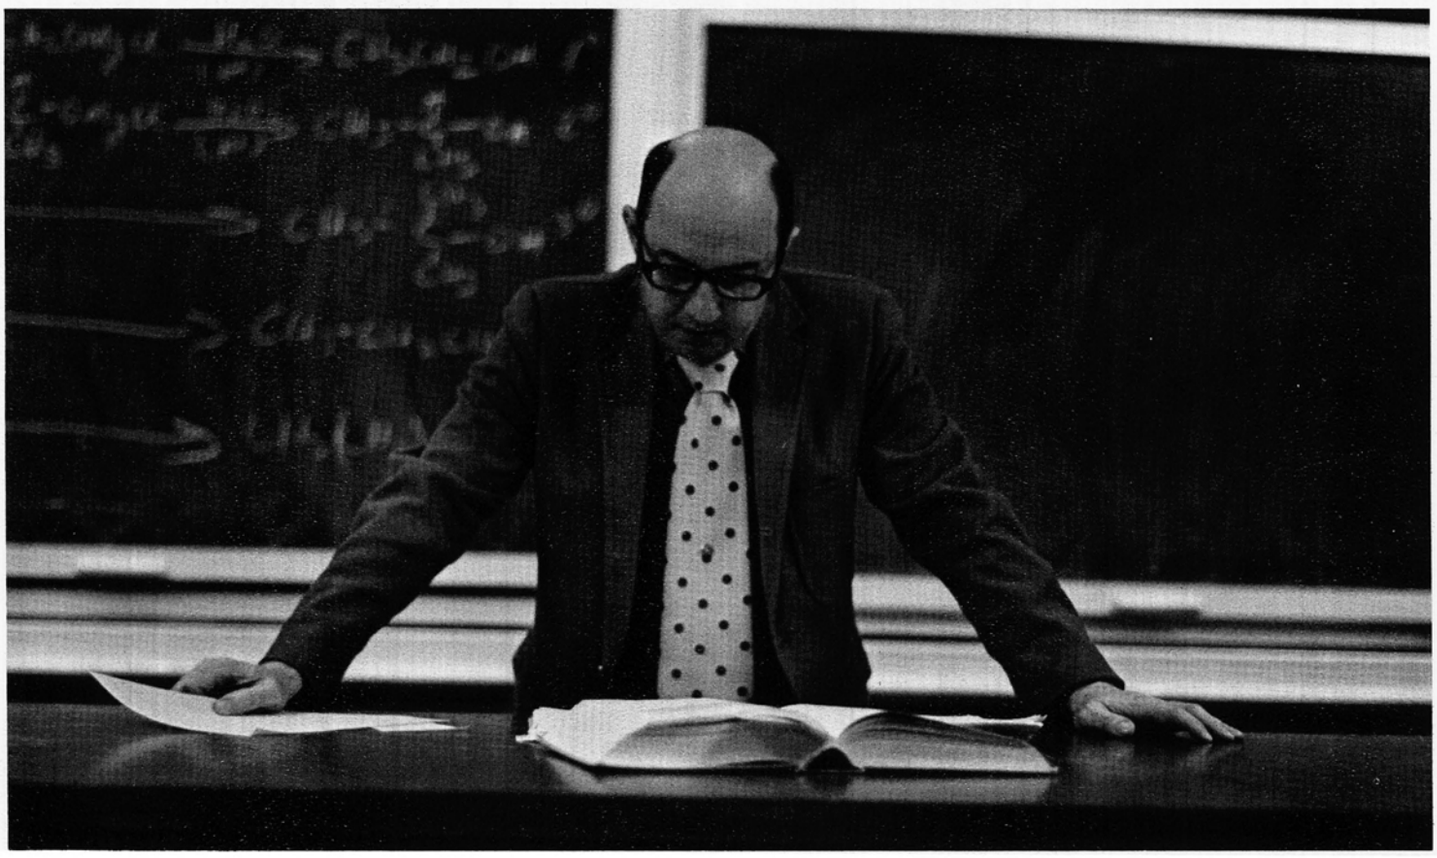
As the sunlight struggles through the drab grey curtains, stacks of books and papers appear in the disarray of the previous night. Dried coffee stains shape their circles on the desk, while a small high-intensity lamp still burns. The loud laughing voices of students returning to the dorm cause you to sleepily roll over onto your side.

Suddenly your eyes jerk open. A quick glance at the clock-radio. A pain hits the bottom of your stomach. "Oh god! It's after 11", you groan.

The vacant desks that shoot empty stares at professors are seldom the result of dipping enrollment. The majority of cases, however, are hardly intentional.

Waking up after a class has started is usually referred to as oversleeping, but that is a misnomer. The major cause for a late morning awakening is lack of sleep. Some students just find it hard to get up for an 8 o'clock class. Reasons can run from a late night at Jerry's to staying up late to study for a test. A major irony exists in the all-night studier taking a "little nap" that lasts through the scheduled test.

Most students have made the common mistake of sleeping too late and missing one or more morning classes. Yet, for some, the mistake turns into a chronic illness, and even afternoon classes are missed on a regular basis. Then the student's reasons for an absence change. Some are bored with the class. Some say they can better spend their time reading the book than listening to the lecture. The latter usually wind up doing neither.



Students that are more vocal relate that their absence is a sign of silent protest against a required course that "just isn't worth it." Instead of making a conscious protest, this student simply is not interested in a course he feels is unrelated to his major. He falls into the old category of course-boredom.

A third group, and probably the smallest, consists of students who extend themselves too far between campus activities and courses. With most courses (except professional labs) being three credit-hours, students with an 18-hour course load are taking six courses. If any amount of homework is required in these courses, spare time comes at a premium price.

In addition to heavy schedules, active involvement in campus life swallows many weekly hours of a student's time. Each year some students sacrifice precious spare time to work on The Northern, the Northern Review, college sports, Student Senate, Celebrity Series, CBOG, Polaris, fraternal organizations, intramurals, clubs, and many others.

Whatever the cause, unfortunately, the effect is the same. The professor, and justifiably so, feels the student cares little about the course – especially if the student skips often. Professors may take the absence as a personal affront to either their course, their teaching methods, or their personality. Usually, these differences can be worked out with a quick visit from the student to the professor during his office hours. Yet, sometimes the absences are so regular, and the course work is so far behind, that the student is almost forced to go into hiding. When the situation reaches this point, the student loses, and the course must be dropped.

There is no set prevention for class-skipping. It exists now and will in the future. Constant mental work has an enfeebling effect that is not as easy to control as a physical tiredness. With matters putting an equal claim on the student's time, it takes motivation to remain in the classroom and on the books. It takes motivation to study, even in Ada.

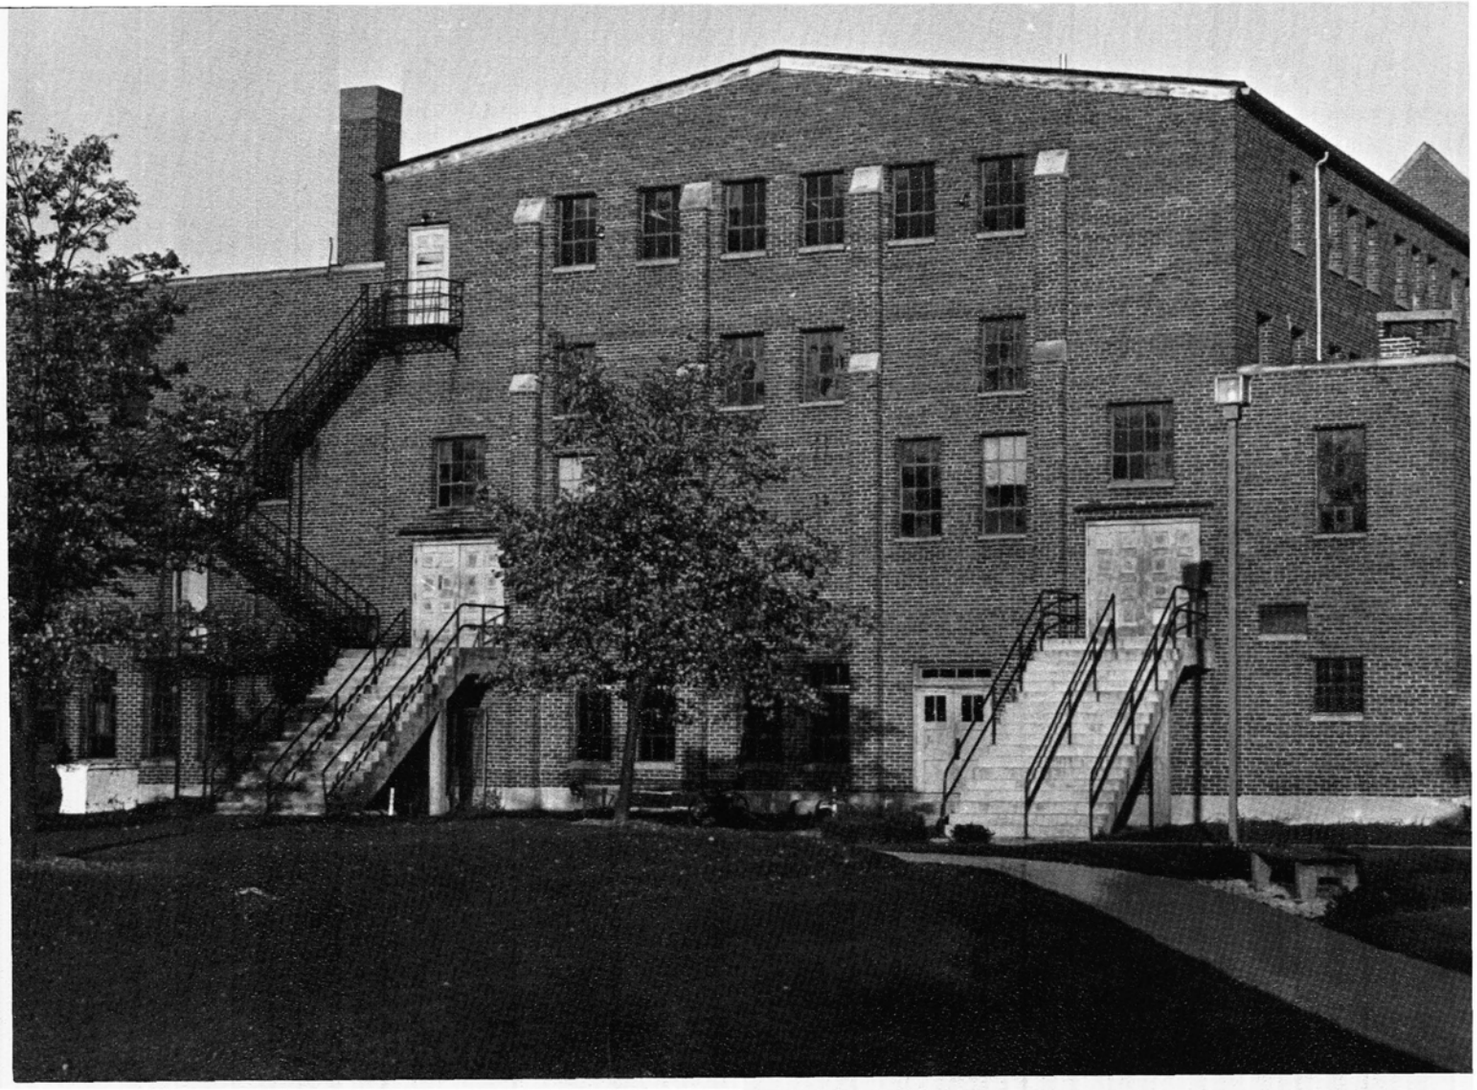
International Day

An international fashion show, documentary films, exotic cuisine, scarf dancers and an Indian instrumentalist were just a few of the attractions of International Week March 17-21.

McIntosh Lounge and Activities Room were transformed into a colorful collection of international booths for International Day.

This year the International Club at Northern, sponsor of the event, was made up of students from 17 different countries studying biology, pharmacy, law, engineering, economics, French, political science, physics and sociology.



Taft Renovation

Taft Gymnasium, once the envy of Ohio athletic directors, bowed its third floor this spring and exposed its hollow interior. Scenes of contested basketball games in the old Taft Gym, where the fans nearly brushed against the players, are now only memories floating about in the heads of the upperclassmen and alumni. Some 46 years after Taft was opened for use, the cranes and workmen began dismantling all but the shell of the old brick building.

However, Taft did not suffer the ultimate disgrace of demolition. In September 1975 Taft Gym will become the new home of the Department of Industrial Arts. Its gabled roofs will be gone and replaced with a flat one, its brick sandblasted and tuckpointed, its windows rearranged. It will take on the appearance of a new building much in keeping with the appearance of the buildings around it.

Inside, there will be workshops, classrooms, laboratories and offices for the Industrial Arts Department. It will be one of the finest facilities in the state. And it will be the industrial arts teachers who will be toasting its long life.

Class of 1975 Faces Bleak Employment Picture

by Norman 5. Cummings, director of placement

"For the Class of '75 the Search for a JobMay Be Long and Hard." This headline from the February 20 issue of The Wall Street journal gives an accurate, though simplistic, description of the employment outlook for 1975 college graduates. Nationwide, all fields are experiencing declining opportunities. Even the high demand areas of engineering and accounting are down from 1974. On-campus recruiting has lessened. In addition, the majority of college graduates in '75 are in fields where supply already exceeds demand. All of these combine to create a difficult market for the job-seeker graduating this year.

Ohio Northern has not been spared during the market decline. On-campus recruting has dropped IO-12%. This does not include the number of new recruiters who might have scheduled had the economy been stable. Employment information from non-recruiting sources is also down. Offers from the on-campus recruiters have dropped substantially. This decline has hit all segments of the university. The high demand areas of engineering and accounting appear to have been adversely affected to a greater degree at ONU than might be true nationwide. Despite this, salary offers in these fields have risen substantially. With the exception of Pharmacy, these fields are still the strongest,

The declines facing engineering and accounting are small. General business graduates are less well off. Liberal arts graduates again face the toughest market. The teaching market is crowded as it has been for some time. However, teachers are not in a lesser demand than in 1974. In fact, some of the best markets for college graduates are for teachers — math, sciences, industrial arts. Positions in social work are difficult to find now.

Graduating law students are facing a market less affected by the recession than by the numbers graduating. They, too, are experiencing frustration in finding the practice they desire. Pharmacy continues to be the best field for ONU graduates. The high number of graduates, though, is making 1975 a more difficult year for them as well.

The class of '75 is facing the poorest employment situation of any in recent memory. The irony is that the class of '74 faced the best market since 1969. This reflects the broad effects of the current recession. The class of '75 has a serious challenge ahead. Those who are better qualified and highly aggressive may be successful in obtaining employment by summer. However, many will have to look very hard for many months and hope the recession ends before the class of '76 enters the market.

"As I look back upon these last four years, I suddenly realize how strange it is to be leaving. All that I have ever known is school life, and now I am expected to adjust to a new and different way of living. Now it's time to go on and meet new challenges. I know that my friends here and my experiences here will help me in the future because learning to live with people is perhaps the best lesson that I've learned." Barb Murray

"These past four years are something I wouldn't trade for the world. The experiences I've had and the friends I've made have each touched my life and made an impression.

Although I've had fun, I'm not sorry to leave. I'm ready now to make new friends, meet new experiences, and face new trials. No sad good-byes, just fond memories." Denise Weber

Being a Freshman

Being a freshman is not the easiest thing in the world. It involves a series of personal changes for each individual which affects the course of his entire life.

With all of the things that I had brought, how was I going to fit it in the door, let alone find a place for it! This thought, though, was temporarily lost in my excitement to meet my roommate. We had exchanged pictures in our letters to each other, and I was sure I could pick her out of any crowd. Well . . . after staring at each other in the lobby with no recognition, we finally met in our room! This event led to the sad goodbyes we made to our families. Being an "adult" at 18, I found, does not suddenly make you grown up. My roomie and I found our first mutual bond in those farewell tears.

Our first day of classes arrived after 3 days of room arranging, friendmaking, and boredom. I can't express the fears I felt towards this day. All of the "horror" stories that I had heard about the difficulty of college profs and courses surfaced. I expected to be assigned hundreds of pages of reading, which would be due the next class period. To my amazement, it wasn't like that at all! In fact, it didn't appear to be much different than high school (though now I know there is a great difference between the two.) This fact certainly made it a lot easier to cope with the other aspects of college life.

One of the first things that I learned in college had nothing to do with any particular subject. I found that to be a success here, I was completely dependent on my intelligence and performance in class. No longer could I depend on my "good" reputation, involvement in extracurricular organizations, or familiarity with my instructors to help me along. I was judged on an equal scale with everyone, which eliminated the "benefit of the doubt" boosts. This realization led me to accept responsibility for my own future, because I knew that I was on my own and success or failure would have to be my choice.

Trying to cope with classes seemed to be one of the major goals of all freshies. Not knowing which prof was "hard" and which ones were "easy" led to some difficult decisions for the first scheduling. Since freshmen are registered last, most likely you are closed out of at least one of your courses, which at the time, seems like a major disaster. With my record of luck, I, of course, had the misfortune to register the last day, two out of the three registration periods. This is one of the most discouraging processes ever practiced. Being last assures you of quite a bit of course juggling. Taking 8 o'clocks, 4 o'clocks, and undesirable profs are the results in the losing battle you play with the registrar and his unsympathetic aides.

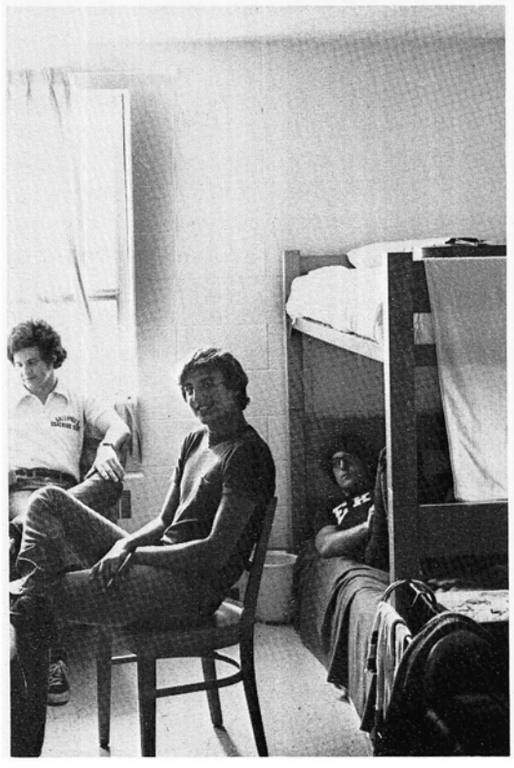
Escaping from the boredom of classes, you find many diversions. Parties, gossip sessions, and just general goofing-off provide an outlet for the tensions of the day. Sometimes these interrelations are carried to extremes, with one night at Jerry's after another; but even that can be an education in itself for some.

One of the most important influences on me was the dorm life. You become close to the most varied sorts of people imaginable. Regardless of background or race, all are bound together by similar situations. I don't suppose you've ever really lived until you've taken cold showers in January, gone without water for two days, tied your friends' doors together so they couldn't get out in the morning, glued someone's makeup into their makeup case, slept in the hall when it's hot, put holes in your ceiling to hang a terrarium, or had your whole wing help you hook a rug, to name a few common practices. I found that you've always got a friend within calling distance when you need one, a very important thing for a freshman.



With all of the adjustments you make your freshman year, the most important one is learning to live with your roommate. I was lucky in that my roommate and I were very compatible. Now, this doesn't mean that disagreements didn't arise, because they did, and usually we learned more about each other from these disputes. I am thankful to my roommate for everything that she taught me. I think that I profited from her achievements and failures almost as much as from my own. It became apparent to me as the year progressed that learning to live with someone who eventually became one of your best friends was the most important factor in my social growth.

Living through freshman year was quite an experience. Holidays in the dorm, finals weeks, and changing classes and profs were major contributions to our overall education. For me, this has been a time of adjustment and growing up. I think that this is more important than all of the other subjects that I learned about throughout the year.

Many problems arose, and somehow, I managed to get through them. Out of all that I was taught though, my instructors failed to educate me in one area. How do you say goodbye to a friend whom you have laughed with, cried with, divulged your innermost thoughts and feelings to, and stayed up until 3 a.m. writing English papers for??Oh, well . . . no one ever said it would be easy. All you can do is cope with and adjust. . .

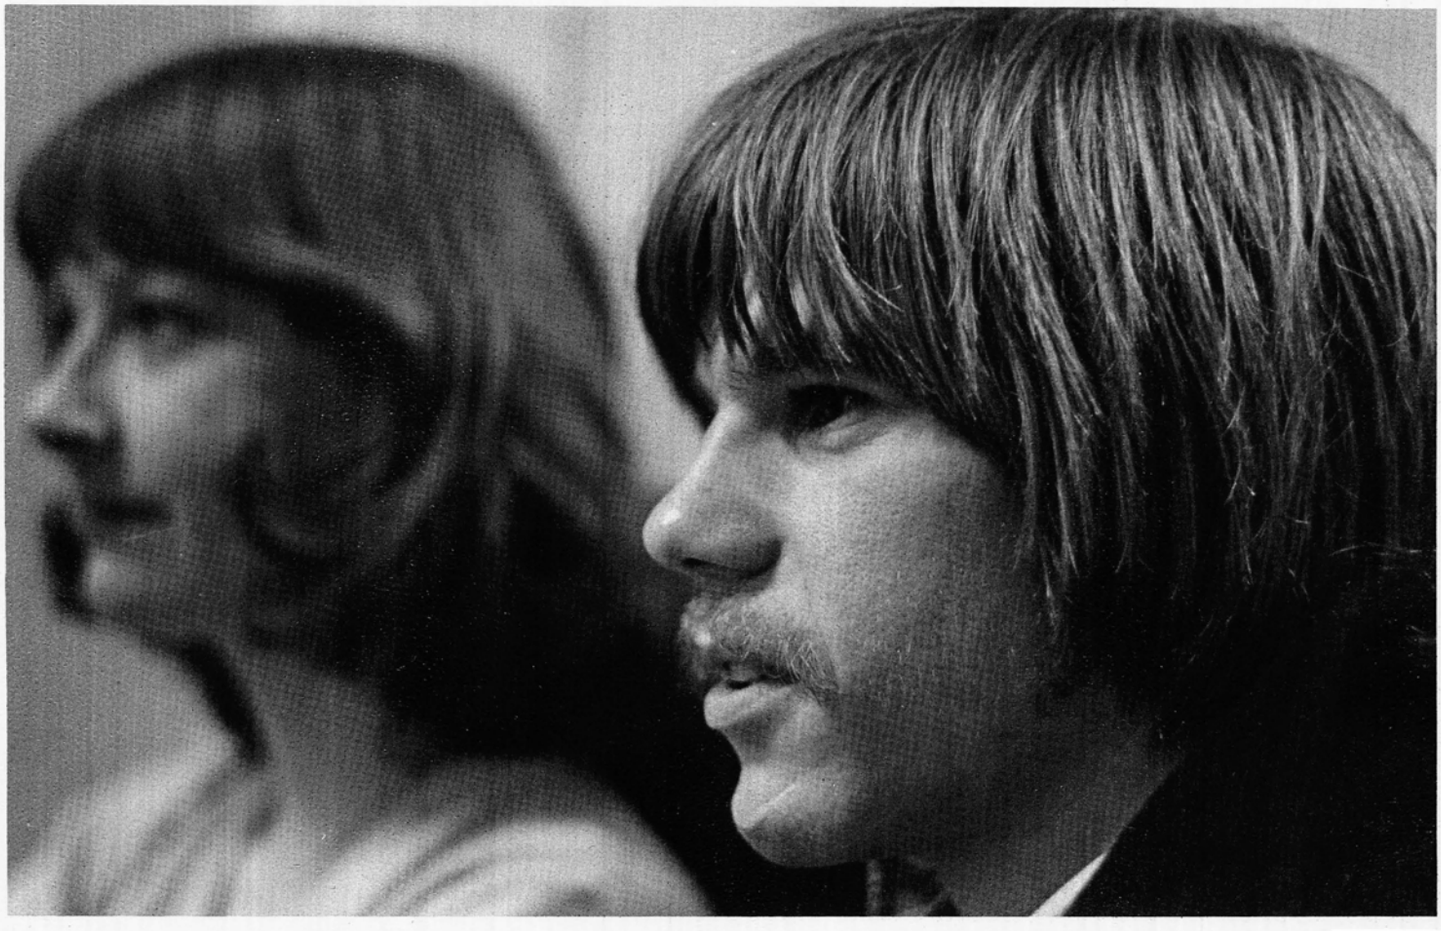
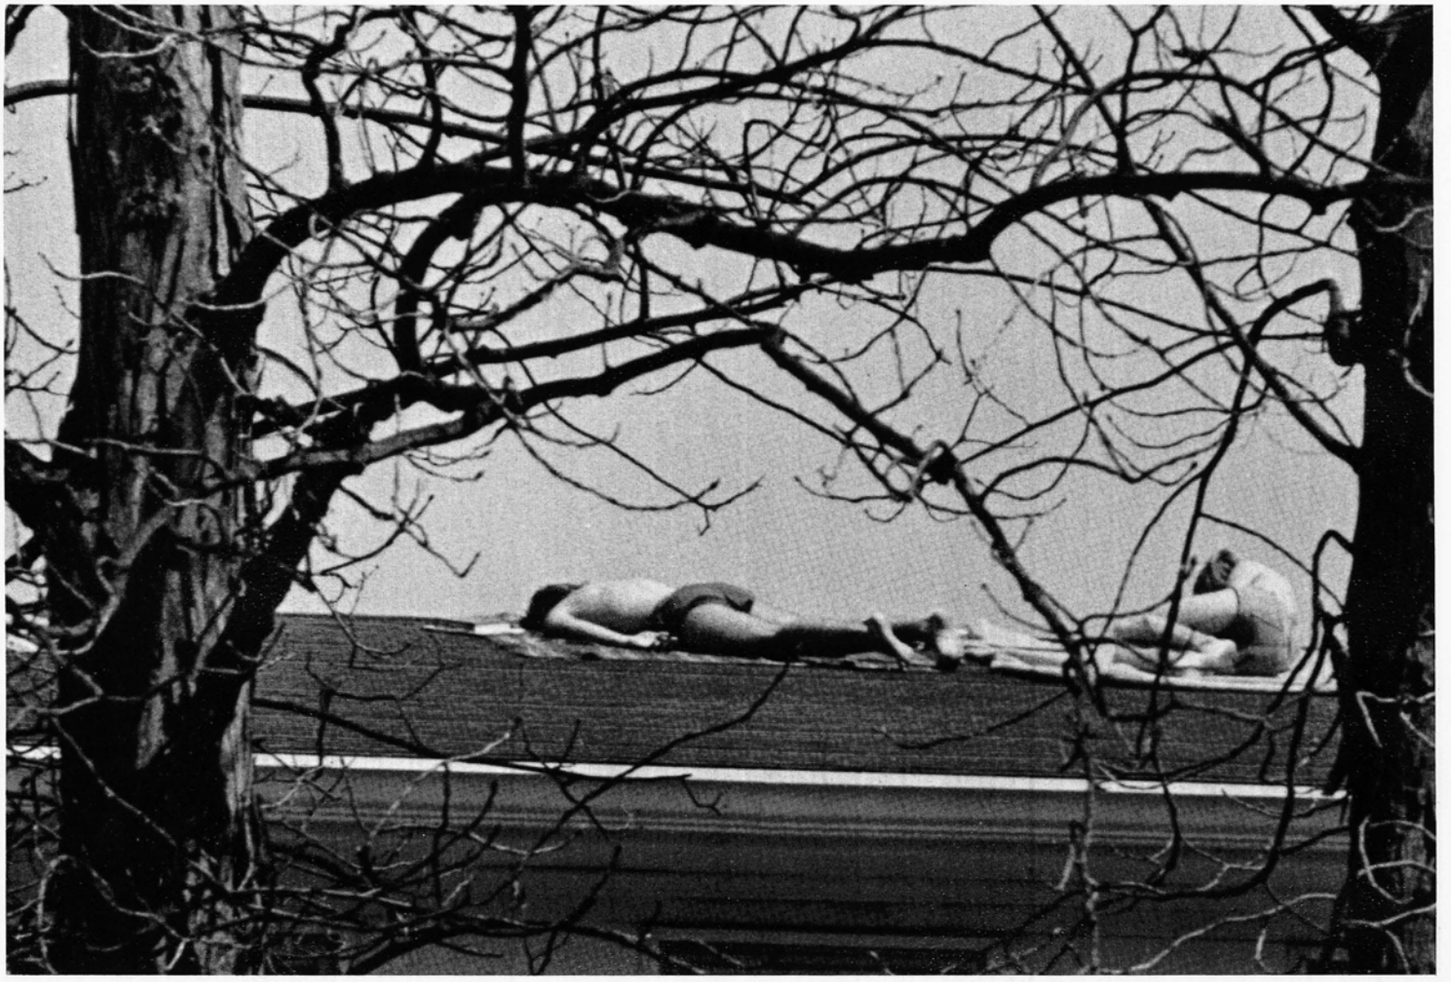
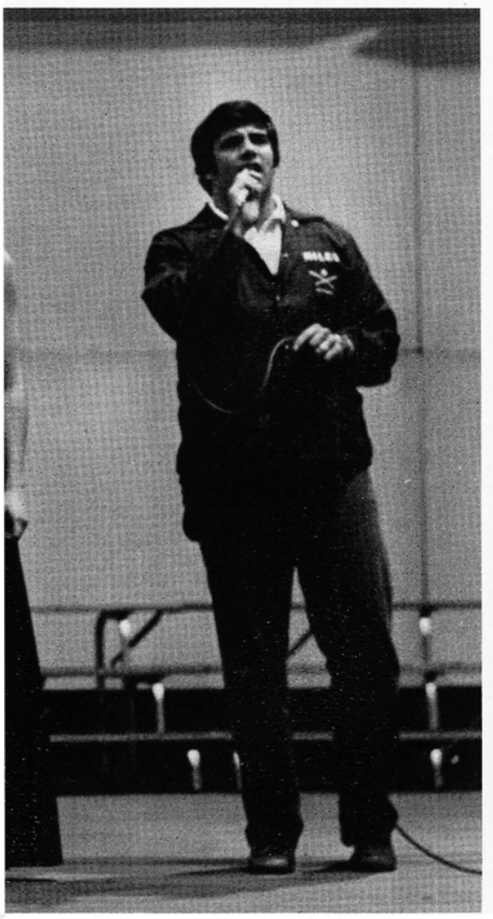
Special Senate elections to be held Thursday
the northern review
Northern victorious over Findlay College
Graduate program planned





As the sun travels northward and the weather warms, ONU students participate in activities ranging from cook-outs to sunbathing.

Some people have secret desires that are never realized. A party with the theme, "Your Secret Ambition" offered the opportunity for a few people to realize their ambitions at least for a short while. What is your secret ambition?



Rick Erb and Holly Spriggs were crowned Greek Week King and Queen.

Greek Week

The Phi Mu Delta fraternity and Alpha Omicron Pi sorority were the two overall winners in the Greek Week festivities. Entering the final event the fraternity competition was tied between Sigma Phi Epsilon and the eventual winner. The AOPi's, however, won easily with Zeta Tau Alpha finishing a distant second. The various events The Greek Organizations competed in were: Greek Sing, talent show, bike race, car rally, gobble game, Coke chug, jump rope, sack relay, human pyramid, stilt races, frisbee toss, and sig Olympics.

Theta Chi fraternity won the serious Greek Sing Competition.

Eating a pie without your hands is not easy.

The Phi Kappa Theta pyramid falters then falls.

Sigma Phi Epsilon wins the talent show with an ONU Super Star.

The Delta Zetas lose ground in the tug-of-war competition.

Showing their winning form the Zeta's win the jumprope contest.
